

ASTRONAUT ARMS OPEN FOR FIRST SPACEWOMAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's first man in orbit John H. Glenn Jr., testified today that when a qualified woman shows up for space exploration he and other spacemen "will welcome her aboard with open arms."

But Glenn, astronaut Scott Carpenter, and top officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration agreed this would not happen any time soon.

Testifying at a House space subcommittee hearing on alleged sex discrimination in space, they denied there was any specific bar against women as astronauts.

They said the simple fact was that no women had qualified, and none were likely to because of rigid qualifications, including previous test pilot experience.

Riots Erupt After Coup In Peru

(Times News Services)
LIMA — A military junta seized power in Peru today and disorders broke out as members appeared at the government palace for swearing-in ceremonies.

Demonstrators shouting "we want our civil rights; we have no legal guarantees" started stoning police cars.

Police sprayed the demonstrators with colored water so that agitators could later be identified. No shots were fired. Demonstrations were also reported in other parts of the capital. In one section three rock-throwing students were reported wounded after police opened fire on them.

The armed forces seized power from President Manuel Prado.

The national radio, which is controlled by the army, said the reason for Prado's overthrow was that "it has been determined that there was fraud in the electoral process" in the June 10 presidential election.

The radio said constitutional guarantees have been suspended.

Prado himself was seized when a column of 50 tanks and armored cars rolled up to the presidential palace before dawn this morning and threw a ring of men and weapons around the building.

Wonder Drug Secrets 'Pirated' From Firm

MONTREAL (CP) — The Gazette says American Cyanamid has taken damage actions totalling $10,000,000 against an American drug manufacturer and a former Toronto man, alleging piracy of its trade secrets.

The actions taken in New York County Supreme Court demand $5,000,000 damages from Kim Laboratories and its president, Dr. Sidney Martin Fox, and $5,000,000 from Elio Salvetti, formerly of Toronto, who is alleged to have been the go-between in the alleged piracy operation.

The Gazette quotes John Bertrand, manager of Medical Products of Cyanamid of Canada Limited, as saying former employees stole complex cultures and top-secret formulas of wonder drugs and sold them. The piracy was alleged to have been committed during a period of three years.

The newspaper says Cyanamid claims its stolen secrets, including complicated manufacturing processes that took as long as 15 years to develop, were sold to Italian manufacturers. Italy has no patent laws to protect drug formulas.

'U.S. WANTS DISARMAMENT ON OWN TERMS'

GENEVA (UPI) — The Soviet Union accused the United States today of wanting disarmament on its own terms and nobody else's. (See earlier story Page 23)

Soviet deputy foreign minister Valerian Zorin told the 59th plenary session of the 17-nation disarmament conference that the United States "will only be satisfied if its position is adopted lock, stock and barrel."

But he warned that unless the United States made concessions on the question of abolition of foreign bases and nuclear delivery vehicles in the first stage of the disarmament process, "there is not much chance of progress here."

HEAVY DAMAGE

Tornados Slash Alberta

EDMONTON (CP) — A family huddled in their home 60 miles west of Edmonton Tuesday as a tornado slashed through their farm yard, ripping apart four buildings and causing about $3,000 damage. Crops were levelled.

It was one of three tornados reported in central Alberta during a violent mid-afternoon electrical storm. No injuries were reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Alec Wolodko of Seba Beach said they saw the tornado approaching their farm. Mrs. Wolodko said the family huddled in their home when the tornado tore past them, missing the house by 50 feet.

"The house shook so much the nails were coming out of the walls and bricks were coming off the chimney," she said.

Mr. Wolodko said the tornado smashed two garages, a tool shed and a chicken coop and estimated damage at $3,000.

A wagon in the yard was picked up and hurled 50 feet and a heavy mowing machine was tossed on top of a 45-gallon oil drum. The tornado snapped huge electric power poles like twigs.

Trees 30 inches in diameter were uprooted and tossed broken and shattered across a meadow on the Wolodko farm.

A second tornado was seen near Millet, 30 miles south of Edmonton, but no reports of damage or injuries have been received from the area.

The third funnel struck an area near Swan Falls, about 110 miles northeast of here. It cut a swath five miles long and 300 feet wide through heavy brush, uprooting trees six inches in diameter.

The tornados skirted Edmonton, but heavy rain and lightning hid the city, turning the Edmonton exhibition grounds into a sea of mud and water and flooding more than 600 basements and a number of traffic subways.

Major Break In Dispute

SASKATOON (CP) — The Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons today withdrew its demand that the government suspend the controversial Medical Care Insurance Act.

The move was announced by Dr. H. D. Dalgleish, president of the college, in a speech to the CCF provincial convention.

He proposed that the act be changed at a special session of the legislature, but said the amendments must first be agreed upon by the college and the government.

Doctors would resume normal practice after passage of the amendments, the college president said.

Since the start of the boycott the college has demanded suspension of the Medical Care Insurance Act as a precondition to opening negotiations with the government on a new plan.

The college also had said doctors would not return to normal practice unless the act was suspended.

Dr. Dalgleish said his new proposal calls for amendments to allow any doctor who chooses to practise outside the act "without any provision of the act applying to him."

The college also wants changes dealing with payments for medical services and the operation of existing health insurance agencies.

Could Assign Payment to Agency

Dr. Dalgleish proposed an amendment that would permit a person who receives medical service to "assign to any health insurance agency his right to payment from the (medical care insurance) commission."

The commission is the government agency that administers the government plan.

In another development indicating new attempts at settlement of the bitter dispute, Premier Lloyd indicated Tuesday night the government is not insisting the doctors return to practice before calling a special session, the medical profession.

The premier declined to say whether further when asked he agreement between the doctors and the government on mounting speculation that behind the scenes' negotiations were taking place.

The government has said it would write a stipulation—now stated only in an order-in-council—into the act. It would also delete certain subsections from the act which it says the college fears contain grounds for the doctors return to practice government interference with the medical profession.

The premier declined to say whether further when asked he agreement between the doctors and the government on mounting speculation that behind the scenes' negotiations were taking place.

Joint Announcement Rumored on Pact

The Canadian Press quotes an "informant" as saying he understood consideration was being given to an idea under which there would be a joint announcement that the government would call a special session early next week and that the doctors would return to work at the same time.

Once these steps had been taken the two sides could then sit down and try to settle their differences. The source said nothing had been done on an official basis but it is "safe to say there is movement behind the scenes."

It was learned positively that the premier and Dr. Dalgleish are taking place.

CCF Would Hit Licence Method

SASKATOON (CP) — Removal of the licensing powers of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons is demanded in at least five resolutions slated to come before the annual convention of the Saskatchewan CCF party.

The resolutions, which call for transfer of the licensing power to the University of Saskatchewan, are to be debated in closed convention panel sessions tonight and Thursday.

They are among 50 resolutions introduced by CCF constituency organizations, dealing with the medical care situation. Prepared before implementation of the controversial Medical Care Insurance Act July 1, none of the resolutions opposes the government stand.

The proposals go before the annual general session of the annual convention of the CCF Saskatchewan section of the New Democratic Party Friday. The resolutions also include a proposal by the Prince Albert organization that the government pass legislation making it an offence for doctors to refuse treatment under the act.

A resolution from Cumberland riding says the college's exclusive licensing right is being used "to force doctors into line," and that doctors' care scheme "need assurance of protection from persecution."

A resolution from Bengough recommends changing the licensing authority if the college attempts "to interfere with the recruiting of doctors from elsewhere."

Cabinet Appointments Delayed by Diefenbaker

DR. SOBLEN LOSES PLEA IN U.K. COURT

LONDON (AP) — The British High Court refused today Dr. Robert Soblen's plea to be set free on British soil but gave him permission to appeal the decision.

Court observers estimated the appeal—even if denied—would delay Soblen's deportation to the United States for perhaps six weeks. They estimated it would take that long to complete the process in the court of appeal.

If he loses the appeal, Dr. Soblen still would have pending a request to the home office for asylum as a political refugee.

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker today named acting replacements for three cabinet ministers defeated in the June 18 federal election.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green will be acting minister of public works, in the place of David Walker.

Fisheries Minister Angus MacLean will be acting postmaster-general, filling the vacancy left by the defeat of William Hamilton.

Forestry Minister Hugh John Fleming will be acting minister of mines and technical surveys, in the place of Jacques Flynn.

The three defeated ministers resigned from the cabinet, effective last Friday.

A fourth-defeated cabinet member, State Secretary Noel Dorion, resigned earlier and Transport Minister Leon Balcer was named acting state secretary.

AWAITS RECOUNT
A fifth defeated cabinet minister, Solicitor-General William Browne, is withholding his resignation from the cabinet pending the outcome of an official recount in his riding of St. John's West. The recount ends Thursday.

In naming part-time ministers to fill the vacancies, Mr. Diefenbaker declined to say how long it would take him to appoint permanent members and return the cabinet to its strength of 24 members.

The safe, containing cancelled cheques and other documents, was stolen during the weekend from the Imperial Oil Company's bulk plant, then later abandoned.

Police made it known the safe was stocked with $8,000, then staked out at the safe site.

John Edwin Davey, 22, and Charles William Thomas, 24, both of Dawson Creek, later pleaded guilty to possession of stolen goods, and were remanded for sentence.

Leonard Clifford McDonald, 25, from Oliver, pleaded not guilty to the charge and was remanded for eight days.

U.S. FARMER ACCUSED

Family Kept in Slavery

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — A 53-year-old chicken farmer was indicted by a federal grand jury Tuesday on charges of keeping a Mexican family in slavery.

Shackney of Middlefield, who was accused of keeping the family on his farm against their will.

Shackney is accused of holding the family in slavery since 1954. D. O'Connor said the charges were tantamount to slavery. He said it was the first time in this century that the charge involved a family.

Shackney met Oros in Mexico City and persuaded him to come to his farm last July with his wife, Virginia Espina, 43, and their five children, federal officials said.

The entire family was "forced to work 12 to 15 hours a day, seven days a week, under the contract which promised them wages at the end of two years. They were not allowed to go to church or school, the officials added.

Shackney faces a maximum penalty of $5,000 and five years in prison on each count, if convicted.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Centennial, Kinsmen Club and community booster Jack Phillion finally threw up his hands today.

Early in the year, responding to the urgings of the Centennial Committee for citizen co-operation, Jack refitted his Fort Street store with a fronting of the 1860 period.

For added color, he put up a sandwich board in front of his store on which to post historic news bulletins, including ship arrivals and town gossip of 100 years ago.

It was popular both with citizens and tourists and Jack fairly rocked back on his heels Monday when he received a police summons demanding his appearance in court Friday to answer a charge of blocking the sidewalk, "contrary to city bylaw number—"

But the big joke was on the police.

The board has been there five months—count 'em—February, March, April, May, June, yes and a good part of July.

Just how slow do our Victoria police really work? Perhaps the Centennial Committee can find out.

The fashion in Seattle just now is to dine at the top of the Space Needle at the World's Fair.

We declined to follow the fashion after contemplating a 600-yard queue stretching nearly twice 'round the base of the Needle. We preferred to stay with the exhibits.

A Seattle woman was surprised at our reluctance.

"Less than two hours after we joined the queue, we were actually eating at the top of the Needle," she said triumphantly.

Victoria bachelors are no longer bachelors.

Local branch of Bachelors International, started earlier this year, has changed its name to The Dolphins and admitted married people because it was getting a reputation as "a marriage agency," the president said.

Initiation fees have been refunded to three of the club's 10 local members. Originally it was hoped to enroll 1,500 Victorians.

Operations have been suspended until Sept. 1.

Spent all Tuesday on Salt Spring Island and was intrigued by billboards announcing a Canadian Legion breakfast at Ganges next Sunday.

Believe it or not, this breakfast lasts from 8.30 a.m. to 1.30 p.m., and guests are invited to eat ALL THEY CAN.

If this means five hours of solid eating, the admission charge of $1 is more than reasonable.

Over at St. Mary's Anglican Church, Fulford, I noted that people from England, South Africa, New Zealand and the United States had signed the visitors' book.

This lovely little church, with its 68-year-old lych gate and peaceful green setting, has a natural appeal for tourists with an eye for beauty.

Art Gallery curator Colin Graham is really excited about the Margaret Peterson show which opened last night.

"We've got something really big on our hands here," said Graham. "Miss Peterson deserves a nation-wide audience, and we should bend all our efforts to get it for her."

Working for the B.C. Government Ferries this summer is Eric Burchill, student son of Professor C. S. Burchill, who lectures at the Royal Roads Tri-Service College.

"It is good fun and you meet all kinds of people," says Eric.

He added, of course, that the job has no connection with his political beliefs.

A Victoria man, busy renovating his home, was engrossed in knocking out part of the wall around the front door, prior to installing new glass blocks.

Delivering letters, the mailman came out with: "What's the matter—lost your key?"

According to librarian John Lort, Victoria Public Library has probably the widest variety of books in the Pacific Northwest.

"That's because we get a big demand for both British and American books," he said. "South of the border, British books are hard to get."

Apparently the more intellectual type of U.S. visitors are aware of this and book stores are favorite haunts during visits to the city.

Henry Ford, proprietor of a book store, says Americans buy British books for two reasons—they are cheaper and more readily available here.

Reeve 'Passing the Buck' On Freeway Plan Protests

Saanich Reeve Stanley Murphy is "passing the buck" to the provincial government in dealing with objections to proposed super highway development on two routes through the municipality.

The attitude was taken by Robert Dawson, of Bob's Trailer Sales, 3637 Harriet, who seeks to have an access to his property included in plans for making Trans-Canada Highway a freeway.

Both Trans-Canada Highway and Patricia Bay Highway are marked for four-lane expressways with limited access, and eventually freeways with access only at controlled intersections and interchanges.

Local planners have recommended against changing a decision to close Harriet, in accordance with provincial highways department policy.

A major interchange would be constructed immediately south of Town and Country shopping centre, handling traffic on Patricia Bay Highway, Trans-Canada Highway, Saanich Road and Blanshard Street, when the latter is extended.

Reeve Murphy said Tuesday it appeared the interchange would be a "major headache to residents of the surrounding area and those who wish to use the Town and Country shopping centre."

He said drivers would have to turn off a half mile before their destination, or else go right past with no place to leave the freeway.

Mr. Dawson suggested this was passing the buck.

"It's only two months since the reeve tried to convert this commercial area back to residential. He is discouraging commercial development," the businessman said, referring to the area west of Patricia Bay Highway bounded by Harriet, Cadillac and Regina.

He said council must have known about plans for the highways when the Town and Country centre was built.

"Why didn't the reeve let the people know when they were negotiating with Town and Country?" he asked.

"It's like inviting you in, then slamming the door in your face."

Mr. Dawson said he would take the matter up with the highways department.

"I'm hoping for some kindness of heart in meeting with provincial government engineers," he said.

LANE PROPOSED

All he has in mind, he explained, is a lane allowing only exit traffic on to Harriet, providing access for patrons to his otherwise isolated business.

They could return to the highway by driving down Crease to Tillicum, which would be a split-grade, over-and-under intersection, Mr. Dawson said.

"Strangers caught in the turmoil of traffic could get back without driving 10 miles out in the country."

...CABINET

There was wide speculation here that the acting appointments meant the prime minister would take some weeks to decide on fulltime replacements.

However, as he emerged from the cabinet meeting at noon, Mr. Diefenbaker said that appointments to fill present vacancies "would be made at an early date."

NARROW CHOICE

One of the problems that might cause a delay is his narrowed choice for cabinet material for Quebec.

Before the election, Quebec had six MPs in the cabinet. This was cut to three as the Conservatives lost 36 seats in Quebec, including three cabinet members.

He now has only 14 Quebec MPs to consider for the three vacant Quebec cabinet posts.

The big question on Parliament Hill is whether Mr. Diefenbaker intends to emulate British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan with a wholesale reshuffling of his cabinet.

Especially intriguing is the future of Finance Minister Donald Fleming.

The prime minister is believed to be waiting to see how the austerity program works out before moving to bring in new ministers and shift the present cabinet ministers to new portfolios.

Certainly when the last cabinet shuffle was anticipated and word was circulated among the press by members of that cabinet that there would be a major reorganization announced in Quebec City it was believed that Finance Minister Fleming would be moved.

RODE OUT STORM

But the finance minister rode out that storm successfully. He also survived a major assault launched against him by one of the strongest Liberal candidates in the general election, Mitchell Sharp.

Mr. Fleming is back and is still holding down the portfolio of finance. But for how long?

It was noticeable that when the cabinet was holding its emergency meetings immediately after the election to draft the austerity program Mr. Fleming flatly refused to answer any questions from reporters. He kept insisting that any information on the country's financial condition had to be obtained from the prime minister.

TOOK VACATION

The announcement of the austerity program was finally made by Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Fleming deliberately stayed out of the picture. The finance minister this month went away for a vacation and returned Tuesday from Muskoka.

But it is doubtful with the government facing financial difficulties that the prime minister would pick this time to shift his finance minister.

Mr. Fleming probably stayed at that post for some time to come, despite speculation in eastern Conservative newspapers as to his future.

DOCTORS

gleish have been exchanging secret letters on the dispute.

However, in a speech to the CCF convention before Dr. Dalgleish's address, Premier Lloyd gave no indication that a breakthrough had been achieved.

On the contrary, he said that so far there had been a negative response from the college to government offers designed to reach a settlement.

"I find it hard to understand why a government should be asked to do more to meet demands of any group. I am unable to understand why such offers have not been accepted."

He summarized the government's position as:

"A doctor is free to practise inside or outside of the act according to his own choice."

'Interfere With Professional Rights'

"In recent weeks those powers have been used, I suggest, to interfere seriously with the accepted concept of professional rights, and with the doctor-patient relationship, and with the finest traditions of the medical profession. This I do not believe was ever intended by the legislature."

He added a main point that must be stressed is that medical care insurance is not the only matter at issue.

"It is a question of whether the democratic process operating through established parliamentary procedures shall be trusted and allowed to function."

The premier said that in recent discussions the government outlined specific proposals for amendments designed to meet stated objections by the doctors to the act.

"We went much further. By a regulation, based on the act, we in fact suspended the act insofar as doctors who wished not to operate under it were concerned. The only relationship of the Medical Care Insurance Commission would be with the patients of these doctors, not with the doctor.

"The doctor, for the use of the patient, would make available as he now does for some private insurance companies information to enable the patient to obtain reimbursement of 85 per cent of the fee schedule. The doctor would charge what fee he wished."

Mr. Lloyd said this proposal was made in the honest belief that it would be acceptable to the medical profession.

"As a reason for non-acceptance it has been suggested by some that this procedure is outside the authority of the act."

"While not agreeing with this interpretation we have said, provided that it produced a return to normal services, a special session could be called to transfer the authority from the regulations to the statute and to enact the other measures referred to."

'The Response Has Been Negative'

"The response has been negative. The resulting action has been one of boycott rather than test and protest in the way generally accepted in parliamentary democracy."

The government Tuesday night announced the appointment of Harold F. Thomson, a retired judge of the Saskatchewan Court of Queen's Bench, as a one-man royal commission to investigate complaints of discrimination in granting and retaining of hospital privileges among newly-arrived doctors.

The commission is expected to start work soon. Hearings will be held in local communities but no decision has been made on whether hearings will be open to the public.

Premier Lloyd said that alleged persecution of doctors is outside the terms of reference of the commission. Terms of reference limit the inquiry to instances involving members of the college who were registered by the college licensing body for doctors in the province—on or after Jan. 1, 1961.

The premier said the commission is expected to look into the cases of Dr. Ida Fisher and Dr. Joseph Montgomery, two recent arrivals from the UK who signed short-term contracts with the government to practise in the province.

Meanwhile, Lord Taylor, a British doctor and expert on government medical insurance, met privately today with officials of the Canadian Medi-

HEART ATTACK BLAMED IN DEATH ABOARD SHIP

An elderly man who died Tuesday in a fall aboard the B.C. government ferry Tsawwassen between the mainland and Nanaimo has been identified as Arnold K. Shives, 79, of North Vancouver.

His body was found on the ship's loading ramp by deckhands as they opened double doors to unload cars at Departure Bay near Nanaimo.

Nanaimo RCMP said Mr. Shives had suffered heart trouble for some time. They believe he had a dizzy spell or seizure and fell 25 feet from the main deck at the stern to the ramp.

The victim was on his way to visit his son Paul, a captain on the B.C. ferry system.

Mr. Shives is survived by another son in Vancouver. Nanaimo RCMP said today a coroner's inquiry will likely be held. A pathologist's report has been ordered.

GENEVA (Reuters) — The United States rejected the Soviet Union's latest disarmament proposals today on grounds they would "tend to create immediate and serious imbalances of military power."

DOCTORS END STRIKE THREAT IN ITALY

ROME (Reuters) — Italy's 25,000 hospital staff doctors Tuesday agreed to call off a four-day strike scheduled to start today.

The cancellation came after last-minute talks with the government.

The doctors called the strike to support demands for higher pay and better career prospects. Skeleton services would have been on call to attend emergency cases in hospitals.

Strontium-90 Levels Gain In Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Average levels of radioactive strontium-90 rose in Canada in the first three months of 1962 as a result of last fall's Russian nuclear tests but are below those recorded after Russian tests in 1958. Figures are to be made public shortly.

Readings taken in the quarter show a decrease in the levels of short-lived radioactive products which decay in relatively brief periods. At the same time there has been a rise in the relative concentrations of long-lived products such as strontium-90.

The official said the higher levels of strontium-90 have shown up in tests on milk powder and rain. A further rise in strontium-90 levels is expected in the second quarter of the year but officials cannot say whether these will be above or below the levels reached after the 1958 explosions.

Increases in the levels of strontium-90 in the three months represented only a small part of the total radiation to which man always has been exposed. They did not constitute a danger to health.

UNEMPLOYED PAYMENTS DIP

OTTAWA (CP) — An average of 430,300 Canadians received unemployment insurance benefits each week in May compared with 556,300 a week in April, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The amount paid in benefits was $45,400,000 compared with $51,600,000 a month earlier. In May, 1960, there was an average of 563,500 claimants a week and the total amount paid was $58,700,000.

Rebels Make Fight Threat

ALGIERS (AP) — Leftist rebels in western Algeria have served notice on a military conference attempting to heal the leadership split that they will accept only a solution favorable to dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella.

Otherwise, they hinted, they will resort to force.

Representatives of the guerrilla forces in all six Wilayas (military zones), met in Medea in the mountains south of Algiers, in an attempt to work out a formula to reconcile Ben Bella's faction and the moderate regime of Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda.

No word has seeped out of the secret meeting of what progress, if any, has been made. Four of the six Wilaya commands and the 45,000-man national liberation army support Ben Bella.

Despite Ben Bella's apparent edge in the conference, a top aide of the dissident leader warned Tuesday that should the guerrilla chiefs fail to come up with a proposal satisfactory to Ben Bella's faction, "we will draw all the consequences from this failure, and will face all our responsibilities without exception."

MAY USE FORCE

The spokesman, former deputy premier Mohammed Khider, refused to elaborate on his remark at rebel headquarters in Tlemcen. But it was interpreted as a veiled threat to resort to force, presumably employing the liberation army and the pro-Ben Bella guerrillas.

Calling Ben Khedda and his ministers "usurpers," Khider demanded that they quit and that the National Council of the Algerian Revolution (CNRA) be convened to name a new government.

BROCK CHISHOLM:

Countries More Alert To Extinction Threat

People in most countries of the world feel that the future of the human race is in great danger, says Dr. Brock Chisholm of Otter Point, former head of the World Health Organization.

Just back from Moscow, where he attended a world peace conference, he declared: "There are indications everywhere of increased interest in survival."

Dr. Chisholm said 2,800 delegates from 119 countries agreed that the human race is in danger of extinction.

NO PARTY LINE

He believed this was a "healthy phenomenon" and said there was a notable absence of party line in the discussions.

Dr. Chisholm was one of 47 Canadians attending the seven-day conference at the personal invitation of A. V. Topchov of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

After addressing the conference, he was elected chairman of the final plenary session which produced a statement affirming that destruction of the human race could be avoided by reason and good sense.

Dr. Chisholm said he found among the Russian people a general progression towards "more tolerance for Western peculiarities."

He added: "I hope we in the West are moving in the same direction and are becoming more tolerant of their peculiarities."

Reducing Is Easy With the Naran Plan

"I can wholeheartedly recommend the Naran Plan. I have lost 25 pounds in the last ten weeks in an easy and effortless way. Since losing this weight I feel so much better than I have in a long time." — G. Parr, Midland, Ontario.

Excess weight is bad for your health. Being fat is bad for your morale. If you look old, bulky and unattractive you feel discouraged and listless. Why go through another year suffering? Resolve to lose weight before another month goes by. The first step is always the hardest but once you have taken it the rest is easy. Take that first step today, go to your drug store and ask for the Naran Plan, it is inexpensive and sold on a money back guarantee.

IRANIAN PREMIER RESIGNS

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Premier Ali Amini resigned today after 14 months in office marked by sweeping land reforms and sporadic demonstrations demanding a return to parliamentary government. The shah, Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, accepted the resignation.

An authoritative source said Amini told the shah at a "most friendly" two-hour audience Tuesday night that he was resigning because he had been unable to balance the budget.

An announcement today said the shah asked him to look after government affairs until a new premier is appointed.

64,000 Flee Algeria

PARIS (Reuters) — Almost 64,000 European and Moslem refugees left Algeria for France in the first two weeks of July. Robert Boulin, minister of repatriates, told the French cabinet today.

Information Minister Alain Peyrefitte quoted him as saying that only 50,000 of 200,000 Europeans still live in Iran, western Algeria.

Refugees from Algeria will no longer be allowed to live in the southern port city of Marseilles if they want government aid. At least 125,000 of them have settled in the city and the government is setting up a special committee to resettle the refugees in areas economically suited to receive them.

APPOINTMENT of Mr. Justice T. G. Norris of Vancouver as a one-man commission to investigate shipping disruptions and labor unrest on the Great Lakes was announced today by Labor Minister Starr.

Skimpy Salmon Run Seen in B.C. Rivers

VANCOUVER (CP) — A spokesman for the International Pacific Salmon Commission said Tuesday early season returns indicate a skimpy salmon run in B.C. rivers.

He said results have borne out a prediction of a poor salmon run this year.

Fraser River fishermen caught 44,000 sockeye in three days last week, regarded as only a fair return.

Heavy Student Influx Slows Jobless Decline

OTTAWA (CP) — A large influx of teenage students slowed the May-to-June decline in unemployment, holding it at 301,000 last month, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the federal labor department reported today.

The monthly labor force report showed employment up by 197,000 to 6,451,000, while unemployment fell by 35,000 to 301,000.

The June jobless total represented 4.5 per cent of the labor force, compared with 5.1 per cent in May and 5.6 per cent in June last year.

The joint DBS-labor department press releases, issued about a week earlier than usual, said the increase in employment was "unusually large" for the May-to-June period.

The decline in unemployment, it added, was "smaller than usual for this time of year."

The picture in brief, with estimates in thousands:

	June	May	June
Labor force	6,752	5,590	6,532
Employed	6,451	6,254	6,222
Unemployed	301	336	370

The report is based on a survey of 35,000 households across Canada during the week ended June 23. Today's release did not include the DBS statistical report on the labor force, the basic document on employment and unemployment trends. This was promised later this week.

SLOW DECLINE

The report said an estimated 95,000 teen-agers — substantially more than in recent years — were added to the labor force as school terms ended. About 70,000 found work, but 25,000 more were not immediately absorbed into employment, "thereby slowing down the decline in total unemployment."

Employment gains in manufacturing showed the "most marked" improvement between May and June, with the increase higher than expected for the time of year. In all other industry groups, rising employment levels followed the usual seasonal patterns.

Three regions showed unemployment rates higher than the national June average of 4.5 per cent. They were the Atlantic provinces, with a rate of 7.4 per cent; Quebec, with 5.6 per cent; and the Pacific region, with 5.4 per cent. All were lower than in May.

Next—Everybody a Batman

THE young boy on water skis was being towed backward as he circled Cigar-makers' Bay. When he passed our small beach, he bent from the hips with the careful gravity of a rheumatic courtier and raised one ski in a pose I have seen in ice ballet.

He held the position and was slipping nicely over the water when the wash from another speedboat rolled waves in his path. The heel of the ski dug in and the boy went down. His boat swung around, he recaptured the tow line and, back to the craft, ducked his head under as the driver gave the boat the gun. Up he came, travelling backward again.

This, I believe, though I'm no expert, is a difficult trick. Presumably the boy enjoys his particular skill in its performance. And quite conceivably the enjoyment is increased if the skill is admired by some onlooker. It was wasted on me. I'm not a water ski enthusiast.

But before I put the demonstration down as an example of exhibitionism, I remembered another young person who spent 10 years showing off in aquatic events. He was a springboard diver of sorts; and he could be counted on to perform at the slightest chance of claiming an audience. A person of that type is in no position to call anyone else an exhibitionist.

The comparison set me pondering about the change in times, tastes and appreciations that have occurred around Shawnigan in the quarter century I've been going up there. In the earlier years, we were impressed, or we sought to impress, by skill in diving and swimming. Anyone who was proficient claimed attention and a certain amount of flattery.

It seemed worthwhile for a young man to try a double front somersault from a low board, or a twisting gainer in the hopes of executing a decent dive. I'm not sure why. But if he could elicit some small praise for the feat, he achieved a sense of importance. Very possibly the same stimulant moves the boy who water skis backward on one foot. It isn't his fault if an audience of one is unresponsive. Had he performed elsewhere, he might have drawn excited and envious comment from his own age group.

A lot of people sharing my years may consider it infinitely more important to be a stylish swimmer or a classy diver than to be an expert on water skis. Many of our generation were brought up to admire skill in those pursuits.

By the same reasoning, no doubt when the youngsters now accomplished on skis reach an older age grouping, they will have a connoisseur's appreciation of skill on water skis. But by that time, I fancy, water-skiing will be old hat. There'll have to be something more spectacular, more daring, more thrill-provoking.

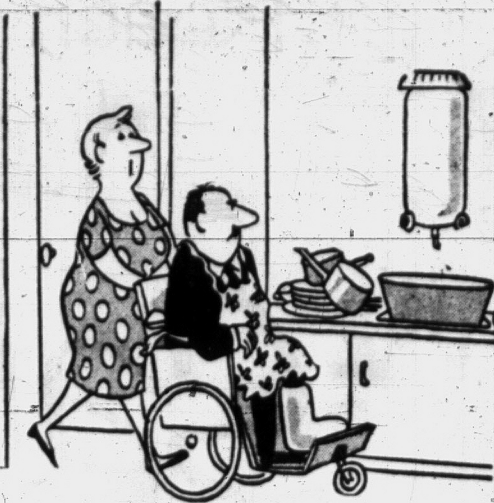

I don't know what it will be. Probably the rage another 20 years hence will be kiting above the water on batmen's wings. The stunt is a circus performance at some water sports now. Given the equipment, it may become a universal pastime then. The kids of the future are going to be handier in the use of such equipment, just as the kids today are highly competent on water skis and youngsters of my boyhood were pretty fair on bicycles, even without being trick riders.

Let's not worry too much about the mechanization of participating sport as exemplified by water skiers. This is only the beginning. What's to come will make this look tame—and possibly will convert water skiing behind a high-speed outboard into a relatively quiet and relaxed hobby.

Let's hope the water skiers gain as much pleasure from their game as we did from swimming, diving, handling a canoe properly or sailing a small boat.

And let's thank today's kids from including among their numbers youngsters who can swim and dive better than we did, and possibly handle canoes and sailboats more expertly also.

ELECTION ISSUE

JFK Will Fight Medicare Defeat

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, Tuesday night, described the Senate's rejection of his compromise medical care plan "a most serious defeat for every American family."

The measure, providing medical insurance for the aged under a tax-supported plan, lost by a vote of 52 to 48 after a bitter two-week debate.

Kennedy planned to turn the reverse into a major issue for the November congressional elections. He said he would offer the program again next year.

The American Medical Association, which led the fight against the program, which would have been financed through higher social security payments, said the Senate's action was "a vote in the public interest."

Kennedy had placed the medical care plan in the top priority bracket of his legislative program. The coalition of southern Democrats and Republicans which scrapped it was of the same pattern of the one that had killed two of his other major proposals in the House of Representatives—his farm bill and his plan to set up a department of urban affairs.

Joining 31 Republicans to kill the medical care plan were 21 Democrats, 17 of them southerners. Five Republicans who co-sponsored the compromise voted with 43 Democrats in trying to save it.

An hour after the Senate vote, Kennedy went before television cameras and radio microphones to read a statement. He said the defeat had dealt a setback to 17,000,000 Americans over 65 and was a blow to children of older persons who have to educate their families and help their parents meet medical expenses.

Kennedy's original proposal had been changed to include about 3,000,000 persons over 65 who are not covered by social security or the Railroad Retirement Act. Also added was provision for optional participation by private medical insurance groups.

The program would have provided up to 90 days of hospital care with all costs paid in excess of $10 for each of the first nine days, up to 180 days of nursing home care, up to 240 home health visits annually and some outpatient diagnostic services. It would not have covered doctors' bills.

The "handful" of 21 Democrats to which the president referred represents one-third of the Senate's majority membership. The Democrats have a 64-36 margin in the Senate and 263-174 margin in the House.

Also prompt in its comment was the American Medical Association. Its president, Dr. George Fister, said in Chicago: "It would have been inequitable for force wage earners to pay substantially higher payroll taxes to provide health care for millions who are able to take care of themselves."

"The American Medical Association will continue its efforts to further implement and strengthen the Kerr-Mills law which offers federal funds to states to help cover medical care for the aged under certain circumstances and all voluntary programs to help meet health needs of the aged."

It's the Blasted Wind Blasts!

It's just the wind that's making you cold. Sunshine (137.6 hours to date) is 27.7 hours less than usual and 34.8 hours of tanning time less than last year. What really hurts, though, is the temperature's down from normal, mind you—but not all THAT far, it says here. The average temperature for the first 16 days of July was a cool 56.6, just three degrees below the average. This is a drop of 6.5 degrees from last year—but then, last year was an extra good one. The mean maximum for the same period was 63, down 4.5 from the average and a rather sad 8.2 from last year. The minimum average of 50.1 is just 1.6 less than normal, and according to Mr. Mackie, is the wind.

There was a 20-mile-an-hour wind blowing Tuesday, with gusts up to 30," he stated. "That's what makes it feel so cold."

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Rooms at the Top

LONDON — There's an unusual hotel going up at the top of Regent Street. It will be on the site of the bombed Queen's Hall, which was regarded as the best concert hall London ever had, adjoining Broadcasting House, headquarters of the BBC, and little All Souls, the church with the spire that comes to such a sharp point that it is alluded to as "the parachutists' nightmare."

The St. George's Hotel will be a six-storey, 86-room affair, sitting on top of a new nine-storey office block, and the unusual thing about it is that the reception desk is up on the top floor and, having signed in there, you go down to your room.

At first impression this seems unnecessarily inconvenient, having to make a 15-floor journey to get to reception. But the point is that besides the reception lobby, all the public rooms are up there at the top—lounges, bars and the big restaurant.

It's not just being unconventional. It makes good sense.

It is around the lobbies and bars that hotel guests and their visitors spend much of their time. Why should it be at ground level, hemmed in by buildings, looking out on noisy traffic? Why not up there on the 15th floor, with a bird's-eye panorama of London outside the windows?

Don't Be Afraid to Move Them

It pays to move plants around from one position to another if their development is not satisfactory in the first spot allocated to them.

Each summer I take one plant from the greenhouse in to the dwelling house. Usually it is a different one each year, and is chosen because it has failed to live up to my expectations in the greenhouse.

This summer the choice was

the Shrimp-plant, Beloperone guttata, which comes from Mexico and should have produced more flowers under greenhouse conditions.

Many people grow this in their homes with varying success, and the strange shrimp-like bracts out of which protrude the narrow white and purple flowers always attract much attention.

In a large window facing north-east, this plant has at last found a place to its liking, and has produced innumerable new shoots each one, ending in a raceme of flowers and bracts.

Strangely too, instead of making leggy top growth, the plant has become more bushy, and when it goes back to the greenhouse in September it should be a respectable looking specimen and continue in bloom nearly all winter there.

When I think of doing so, the plant is turned around so that all sides have been receiving the early sun.

One attention the beloperone has not lacked and that is a half pint of water daily, and abundant fresh air. I am led to thinking that the comparatively moderate house temperature of summer, 70-75 deg. F. is more to its liking than the 70-90 deg. F. it usually gets in the greenhouse from June to September.

MECHANICAL FLINGER AT WORK

Seldom seen by fans, mechanical pitcher is getting in lots of work in local diamond circles. Victoria Amateur Baseball Association teams, from senior to Little League, make good use of practice machine. Here, Jim Armstrong takes swing while coach Sandy Spiers of Esquimalt Little League all-star club checks form. Machine, capable of lobbing balls or heaving high, hard ones, has been in demand as teams prepare for playoffs. Esquimalt opens Island Little League playoff Friday night. See story below. — (Photo by Ryan Brothers.)

Important Days Ahead For Young Ball Hawks

MANPOWER SHORTAGE SETS UP FORFEITURES

No team—no game. This was the situation in two Victoria ball leagues Tuesday. Sooke won their scheduled Heywood Men's Softball League game when Navy failed to field a nine. Eagles picked up a Senior Amateur Baseball League victory when Builders couldn't assemble a starting nine.

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Rangers of the National Hockey League have shifted their training camp from Guelph, Ont., to Vancouver, general manager Muzz Patrick said Tuesday.

AUTOMATIC TICKET SELLERS ...

Electronic Touts Next for Racetracks?

By BILL MCCORMICK

NEW YORK (NEA)—Many race tracks already have been stripped of most of their charm and dignity to become little more than huge, coldly impersonal betting mills. Even more automation is threatening.

In a New York hotel they demonstrated a science fiction conglomeration of tubes, wires, push buttons and whatnot called an electronic parimutuel betting system. If that ever takes over, the public can say goodbye to the last vestige of personality and graciousness in thoroughbred racing.

Tickets resembling the automatic file cards used by the FBI would be purchased by the bettor. To make a bet, he would insert a ticket in any one of hundreds of machines scattered all around the track—grandstand, clubhouse, restaurants, bars and even at the rail.

Pushing levers on the gadget, which looks like a small automatic voting machine, he would record his bet on any horse in any race or the daily double. It might not be necessary to be an MIT honor graduate to operate the contraption, but it could help.

Tickets would be cashed at a regular cashier's window, but the man who pays out would also have electronic assistance. He would stick the winning ticket into a slot in another gadget, which would electronically scan the pasteboard to make sure it wasn't counterfeit, then display the amount to be paid. A phony would cause the word "reject" or "tilt," or something to light up. Pinkertons would come running.

Betting transactions would be automatically transmitted to a central station, which would relay the total amounts bet and odds to display boards.

A less complicated system, operating on $5 bills, was tried at Hialeah Park last winter without much success. "Some bought tickets from the machines for novelty," said an official of the Florida track. "If they got a winner, they figured the machine was lucky—and went back."

"Most of the bettors, stuck to the regular windows. I guess they figure the sellers talk to the horses and know everything. One thing the machines would do, they would put an end to the perennial story about the guy who got a ticket on a winner by mistake."

"Machines have no vanity appeal," was the opinion of an old hand. "They'd be great for politicians and racketeers who didn't want to be seen at the $100 window, but tough on showoff actors."

"This automation has got to stop somewhere," said Mopey Dick, a well-known purveyor of inside information. "The next thing you know, they'll have electronic touts that hiss at players to get their attention, then whisper tips through stereophonic speakers."

"I kinda hope they put them machines in," concluded Mopey Dick. "I'd like to see what happens when some drunk tries to mail a special delivery letter in a betting machine—and a win ticket on a $365 daily double comes out."

Stirling Moss Takes a Spin

LONDON (Reuters)—Stirling Moss, Britain's ace racing driver who was seriously injured in a racing crash about three months ago, said Tuesday he has driven since his accident.

But he added: "I have only driven a few yards so far."

Asked about reports that he had driven at 100 miles an hour since his crash, Moss said: "That is completely untrue. What I may have said is that I am fit to drive at that speed if I want to."

"I could have done so the day I left hospital but I have not. A speed of 100 miles an hour means no more to me than 30 miles an hour to the average motorist."

Victoria's forwards showed a marked reluctance to shoot Tuesday, and that was a major factor that preserved Vancouver's perfect record against Shamrocks. Their 127 conquest of the Shamrocks was Vancouver's fifth straight over Ferguson's crew this year.

It moved the league-leaders eight full points ahead of second-place New Westminster, which supplies tonight's opposition at Memorial Arena.

While some of the players acted as if it was a sin to shoot, Ferguson, happy with show, surprisingly, was not greatly disenchanted by Tuesday's tete-a-tete in Vancouver.

"Apart from the reluctance to shoot, I must admit I wasn't too disappointed with the team's performance," he said. "We were in the game until the final few minutes."

"It's no disgrace to lose to Vancouver. That is a very good lacrosse team."

FORBES BUSY

The defending Mann Cup champions fired 46 shots at goalie Norm Forbes while the Vics tested Merv Schweitzer only 26 times.

Referees Jack Northup and Bill Stuart handed out 40 minutes in penalties during the game, 23 minutes of them to Victoria, and it was this which cost the Island team dearly.

Vancouver scored three goals with a man advantage, two of them in the vital second period when Vancouver went ahead to stay.

Fred Selman scored four goals to lead the Vancouver attack, while Gord Gilmie scored three and Wayne Peck held three and two.

Ron Jay was the top marksman for Victoria with three goals, all in the first half. Other Victoria goals were scored by Don Ashbee, Whitey Severson, Jim McNeill and Ed Kowalyk.

Baugh Facing A Profitable But Idle Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Coach Sammy Baugh will be paid a full salary for not running a football club this season.

He has left New York Titans of the American Football League. After coaching the Titans for two years, Baugh will be paid $20,000 for the last year of his contract.

"They have better material and a better club than we had last year," Baugh said Tuesday when he and club owner Harry Wismer smoked the peace pipe in public at a press conference.

Although Baugh hadn't heard from Wismer since the end of the 1961 season and reported to training camp at East Stroudsburg, Pa., without official notice of his firing, all was sweetness at their meeting.

"We're both good friends," said Wismer.

MAYBE ADEM BETTER GO FOR ONLY LITTLE FISH

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (Reuters)—A doctor advised Adem Dzinic of the town of Doboj in central Yugoslavia to take up fishing to soothe his strained nerves.

The cure worked—until one day Dzinic landed two big fish weighing 33 pounds and 13 pounds within 20 minutes.

It was too much. Dzinic got so excited about his catch that when he got home he suffered a nervous breakdown, the Belgrade newspaper Politika reported Tuesday.

Now he is recovering—and looking forward to going fishing again soon, the newspaper added.

Dawn Patrol Goes For Bo But Angels Will Take McBride

(UPI)

Bo Belinsky may be the darling of the Hollywood dawn patrol but when it's first-class pitching that's needed the Los Angeles Angels will take Ken McBride.

Belinsky "made it big" in the Hollywood night spots when he pitched a no-hitter for the Angels May 5. At the time

McBride owned a 13 record and couldn't have gotten an autograph from a class "C" western starlet without an introduction from a half-dozen press agents.

But that's ancient history today because the 26-year-old right-hander from Huntsville, Ala., has reeled off nine straight victories to give him a 103 record while Belinsky has won only three games since his no-hitter and stands at 74.

$75,000 BEAUTY

McBride, obtained for $75,000 from Chicago White Sox last December, pitched his third 10 win of the season Tuesday night when the Angels beat Detroit Tigers and remained 3½ games behind the American League-leading New York Yankees, who topped Boston Red Sox 10-0. McBride has won three of the Angels' five games since July 2. He has hurled three shutouts and pitched four triumphs.

Lack of a Problem Worries Golden Guy

NEWTOWN SQUARE, Pa. (AP)—"I'm ready—I feel great," Arnold Palmer said Tuesday and then acknowledged this is his one big concern going into the weekend's PGA golf championship.

His worry is he hasn't any worries.

"I'm not tired from my British trip and I don't feel at all let down," added the game's glamor figure from Latrobe, Pa. "I don't have any aches or pains. I'm putting okay again. This is a good golf course."

"I just can't find anything to complain about and I'm not sure that's a good sign or not."

Palmer is a man who thrives on adversity. Just before the U.S. Open last month at Oakmont, Pa., he split a finger on his left hand in a freak accident and then he proceeded to tie for the title, losing to Jack Nicklaus in a playoff.

SWEET BRITISH

At Troon, Scotland, last week he was plagued with a nagging backache. All he did was sweep to the British Open championship with the greatest four rounds of golf ever shot in the 102-year-old tournament.

On Thursday, Palmer tees off against 171 fellow pros; the toughest tournament tourists and the paunchy club pros on their yearly outing, and he is about as strong a favorite as you can get.

The question seems to be whether the amazing young competitor can fire himself up for another supreme effort on the heels of his great British triumph.

"Why not?" Palmer asks. "They say I can't possibly have the same desire here that I had at Troon. If I can't win the grand slam this year, I'd like a little slam. Remember, this is the one major championship I never have won."

Asthma Attack Kayo's Ex-Champ

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Harold Dade, 37, who held the world bantamweight championship for two months in 1947, died after an asthma attack Tuesday.

Dade upset the bantamweight champion, Manuel Ortiz, in January, 1947. Ortiz regained the title two months and five days later.

INDIANS FALL BACK

Cleveland Indians dropped 4½ games off the pace when they were beaten by Minnesota Twins, 7-2, Baltimore Orioles downed Kansas City Athletics, 3-2, and Washington Senators swept Chicago White Sox, 1-0 and 7-3, in other AL games.

San Francisco Giants moved to within one game of first place in the National League when they edged Milwaukee Braves, 4-3, while Cincinnati Reds beat front-running Los Angeles Dodgers, 7-5. St. Louis Cardinals defeated Chicago Cubs, 8-6, and Philadelphia Phillies made it 10 in a row for the season over the Houston Colts with 3-0 and 8-2 triumphs.

Fishing Just One Part Of Big Solarium Derby

TIME OUT! BY JEFF KEATE

"Well, I have heard that a porpoise is very intelligent!"

Fun and fishing are combined in this year's edition of the Solarium Salmon Derby—Vancouver Island's biggest one-day fishing competition, which goes on the water Sunday at Saanich Inlet.

Anglers, of course, will be dead serious when they cruise the inlet in Sunday's scramble for a long list of derby prizes. But there will be fun for all when the annual derby radio "blitz" is staged Friday night at Shelbourne Plaza.

This year the blitz will also include an outdoor dance and, as usual, persons purchasing derby tickets at the Plaza will also receive a free sundae from the proprietors of the Tastee Freez at the shopping centre.

DANCE IS FREE

There will be no charge for the dance and everybody is invited to join in the frolic.

During the evening, the CKDA mobile unit will be at the Plaza and, as in former years, several sports personalities and derby directors will be on hand willing to try singing voices of questionable quality, requests telephoned in by listeners pledging to purchase derby tickets.

The radio portion of the blitz starts at 7 and will continue until midnight. The orchestra will strike up the first dance tunes at 9.

Hoping to see a bumper crowd at the blitz is derby chairman Bob Jones.

PROCEEDS TO HOSPITAL

"We can work on the derby, and we are glad to," says Jones, "but it is the people who buy the tickets that count the most. If people realize what the derby accomplishes, I'm certain they will support it."

Derby proceeds go to maintenance of the splint and brace shop at Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Since the derby—co-sponsored by the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association and The Daily Times—was launched in 1946, it has raised more than $82,000 for the crippled children's hospital.

Patients at the hospital are the biggest winners in any Solarium Derby, but there are also some attractive prizes waiting for purchasers of the $1 derby ducats.

EVEN SMALLEST WINS

High on the list is the consolation prize of $300 cash, which can be won by any ticket holder. Topping the collection of more than 35 fishing prizes is a stereo radio-recorder player, a transistor radio and a complete salmon fishing outfit. There are several hidden-weight awards and even a prize for the angler weighing in the smallest legalized salmon.

Fishing gets under way at dawn Sunday. Catches must be on the wharves of weighing stations by 2 p.m. in order to be eligible for prizes. Usual VSIAA derby rules will be in effect.

A check of Saanich Inlet boathouses this morning disclosed that a few rental boats are still available for Sunday. Tickets may be obtained at city sporting goods stores, inlet boathouses and VSIAA members.

GOLF SCHOOL

By SAM SNEAD

Some golf teachers play down the importance of keeping the left arm fully extended and straight on the backswing. I'll admit that the arm should not be rigid or stiff but it should be straight and fully extended, as in the illustration.

If it's not, your swing will be reduced—and reducing the arc of the swing means reducing the power of the swing.

Secondly, if you let your left arm bend a bit at the point we show today, you will develop more of a chopping swing than you want. At this point, the wrists are beginning to cock naturally as the backswing continues.

If the left arm were crooked, the wrists would cock sooner, and the swing would be more upright than is necessary.

Lumsdon Trails Dutch Teacher

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (CP)—Herman Willemse is a money swimmer who is well on the road to domination of professional distance swimming.

Willemse made it look easy Tuesday in winning the 25-mile Atlantic City swim for the third time in a row. The victory netted him $5,000.

He plans to enter the swim across Lake St. John in Quebec Aug. 4 and the Canadian National Exhibition swim on Aug. 27.

Willemse, 28, a Dutch school teacher, turned in a startling performance in decisively beating Cliff Lumsdon of Toronto and seven other survivors under the toughest conditions ever in the nine-year history of the Atlantic City swim.

Willemse emerged from the gruelling marathon breathing easy and with no sign of fatigue.

More than a mile behind was Lumsdon, fighting choppy waters, heavy tides and rocks that left all of the 15 starters seared. Six dropped out along the way and several lifeguards in boats became ill.

Lumsdon, 31, a two-time winner of this event, summed up the struggle this way:

"It's the toughest race I've ever in and I think Herman Willemse is the greatest swimmer I have ever competed against."

Willemse completed the race in 11 hours, 35 minutes, 45 seconds—just a few minutes over his time in 1961 under far more favorable conditions.

He was scratched on one hand and a leg after colliding with a jetty. He also struck his head on a piling at the Brigantine Bridge about 2½ miles from the finish.

Tom Park of Lakewood, Calif., formerly of Hamilton, Ont., nosed out John LaCourse of Montreal for third place. Greta Anderson of Los Alamitos, Calif., was fifth; Carlos Larriera, of Santa Fe, Argentina, sixth, and Helge Jensen of Toronto, seventh.

"NEVER AGAIN" Miss Anderson was weeping and covered with cuts.

"I'm not going through this any more," the 33-year-old former Danish Olympic champion sobbed. "I thought I was going to die out there on those rocks."

LaCourse lost two front teeth and was momentarily stunned after smacking into rocks.

WIT JOINS PEP, JOY ON STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Stock Exchange members can boast today that the exchange now has WIT to go with its long-time PEP and JOY.

WIT is the ticker symbol of the stock of Witco Chemical Company, which was listed for the first time Monday, while PEP is the symbol for Pepsi-Cola Company and JOY stands for Joy Manufacturing, a Pittsburgh firm which manufactures mining equipment.

Capital Outlays Record Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—Early-year expectations of a six-per-cent rise in capital expenditures during 1962 appear likely to be achieved and perhaps surpassed, informants said Tuesday.

The government's temporary tariff surcharges, adopted as part of the new austerity program, might even provide an incentive that would push capital outlays over the $8,596,000,000 total indicated in a survey of investment plans made at the start of the year.

But officials said it is too early yet to gauge the full effect of this factor.

The trade department now is compiling reports from its mid-year survey of investment intentions in all sectors of the economy, including business, firms, governments and public agencies.

The survey was carried out prior to the June 24 announcement of the government's save-the-dollar austerity program which included cuts in government spending as well as the "temporary" tariff surcharges of five, 10 and 15 per cent on just over half of Canada's imports. Survey findings are expected to be announced towards the end of the month.

NEW YORK (CP)—Canadian dollar at 92 1/2 in terms of U.S. funds. Pound sterling was at 82 1/2.

Westcoast Income Shows Healthy Gain

VANCOUVER (CP)—Westcoast Transmission Co., Ltd., net income for the first two months of this fiscal year jumped 33 per cent compared to the corresponding period a year ago, president Frank M. McMahon, has announced.

Mr. McMahon told the annual meeting of the increase from March 31 but gave no figures.

He said later revenues should maintain the same rate of increase experienced to date over the rest of the fiscal year.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Industrial Prices Continue to Drop

Industrial prices continued their downward trend on both the Toronto and New York stock markets today.

Only strength of the Toronto market was provided by golds. Banks were again the leaders of the downward trend, helped along by papers and steel issues.

The list declined from the start at New York in a resumption of late Tuesday's selloff.

AT TORONTO on the speculative market ViolaMac was down 14 cents to $1.66 a share on a turnover of 273,675 shares. New Kelore was unchanged at 11 cents on 189,200 shares.

International Nickel had the biggest loss on the base metal side, down 1/2 to 59 1/2. Among golds, Giant Yellowknife advanced 1/2.

Western oils saw Pacific Petroleum down 1/2, Horie B 20 cents and Calgary and Edmonton 1/2.

TODAY'S GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trade reports indicated that West Germany bought 20,000 bushels of rye from Canada as part of an intended 4,000,000-bushel purchase from the world market.

Prices were irregular in the flax market because of mixture of early selling, some overseas inquiries, and firm lincol prices abroad.

Trade on the oats and barley market continued on a domestic basis and reports showed some early selling and domestic shipping purchases.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included: The United Kingdom, 535,000 bushels.

Sea Drama Roles Aplenty For Hardy Lifeboat Crew

(In 1958 John Manning, a former Victoria College student, vagabonded around the world and wrote an entertaining series of articles for Times readers. This month, John, now a member of the Times reporting staff, is on a "boat" hiking expedition up Vancouver Island's west coast. Following is the third of a series about the people and places along the coast.)

By JOHN MANNING

News of the distress call spread like a fire alarm through the Bamfield lifeboat station.

Within four minutes the rescue vessel was down the ways and headed out into the open Pacific. Three men, two crew members and myself, were aboard.

"It's nothing too serious," said John Logvinoff, the coxswain. "A fishboat's broken down in Barkley Sound."

As he spoke, the Tofino lifeboat station came on the air, reporting the position of the drifting boat. It was two miles ahead of us.

Our deckhand sighted her first.

"There she is," he said. "Good thing there's not much of a sea running or he'd be in a lot worse shape."

It was but a few minutes before we had the relieved fisherman in tow and were headed back to Bamfield.

"We don't charge anyone for rescuing them," said Logvinoff. "But this troller reminds me of another we went after called the Iskum."

He said that particular ship had broken down 50 miles off the coast.

"His radio went dead and we had to look all over the lot for him. When we finally sighted him he got so excited he cut loose a $200 anchor line."

On 24-Hour Call

Logvinoff, who started his career with the Bamfield lifeboat in 1927, is in charge of the eight-man station. He, along with an engineer, are on 24-hour call.

The Bamfield lifeboat station is one of two on the B.C. coast; the other is at Tofino. Both are run by the Department of Transport.

Last year the 36-foot lifeboat made 22 trips in answer to distress calls. Yet none of those quite matched up to the one received at 0344 hours on January 2 of this year.

"Grounding Juan-de Fuca Strait, need help at once."

It was from the Greek freighter Glafkos. For half an hour no one knew quite where she had gone aground. Then a fishing boat, the Hillier Queen, dispatched the following message:

"The vessel is aground amidships on a reef in the George Fraser Island group. No attempt is being made by the crew to launch the lifeboats or to abandon the vessel. Weather - visibility two miles, in rain shifting from east to southeast at 15 miles per hour increasing. Sea moderate swell."

39-Hour Job

Bamfield's lifeboat headed straight for the scene. In seas which soon started to rage she spent a total of 39 hours and 15 minutes alongside the stricken freighter.

As the Rescue Co-ordination Centre, at Vancouver later stated:

"Outstanding work was performed by the Department of Transport's Bamfield Lifeboat. Exposed to dangerous and difficult conditions, the lifeboat crew remained on the scene throughout the complete operation. Their dedication to duty in remaining on the scene gives high credit to the lifeboat service."

Notations in the lifeboat's own log describing other rescue operations are somewhat less illustrative:

"July 11, 1961: Proceeded to assist Troller ICY B reported drifting in fog off Cape Beale. Searched and found boat between breakers with hole in bottom. Towed to Mud Bay. Boat total loss. Brought two men to lifeboat station."

France to Model U.S. Presidency?

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle was reported ready Tuesday to press a drive to change his office into something resembling the U.S. presidency and to create a vice-president's post for his eventual successor.

The way for de Gaulle's plan was cleared by Monday night's government victory in a "confidence" vote aimed at up-setting his government and by the extension of his special powers to enable him to suppress his right-wing enemies.

The French leader is known to want the constitution changed so that a president can be elected more along the American pattern and to provide for an heir to the presidency in the form of a vice-president.

Four questions concerning de Gaulle's project have been submitted in parliament by Communist leader Jacques Duclos, Socialist parliamentary leader Antoine Courrière, former interior minister François Mitterrand and independent deputy Guy Petit.

The questions add up roughly to this: Is de Gaulle planning to alter France's existing institutions by resorting to another popular referendum?

MAPPING STRATEGY

Senate President Gaston de Monnerville, who would become acting president if anything happened to de Gaulle, already has come out openly against any change of the constitution, except through strictly legal channels.

This means that de Gaulle would have to obtain the approval of the national assembly for the constitutional changes he wants.

Big Puma 'Arrived' In Capsule

LA PAZ (Reuters) — Indian villagers have the Bolivian government, the United States embassy and the press puzzled with a tale of a puma which they think arrived in a space capsule.

Manuel Orozco, mayor of the village Ayo-Ayo, 40 miles from here, reported to the government that June 30 a strange metallic object was seen in the sky and appeared to fall into a nearby ravine.

The following day a strange animal appeared in the neighborhood, he said.

Villagers killed the animal with sticks and stones and ate it. The United States air attaché, Col. Paul Wymer, bought the skin. It was later identified as a puma—a big South American cat which is not normally found on the Bolivian high plateau.

Orozco, his 20-year-old son Manuel and many other villagers say they saw the flying object, which local reporters christened "the space capsule."

They are convinced that the puma arrived in it and say it seemed tame—or perhaps stupefied by the change of climate.

Kennedy Firm On Berlin Issue

LIEUT.-COL. BRUCE to staff college.

Pats' CO Posted To Kingston

Lieut.-Col. R. F. Bruce, MBE, CD, who has commanded the local First Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry since April, 1961, has been appointed to the directorate of the Canadian Army Staff College in Kingston, Ont. He will be succeeded by Lieut.-Col. G. G. Brown, now serving as an exchange officer with the First British Division Headquarters of the British Army of the Rhine.

Lieut.-Col. Brown will leave Victoria early in August to take his new position. Lieut.-Col. Brown is the son of the late Arthur R. Brown, who was a well-known Saskatchewan educator and CBC's "Prairie Gardener."

He was born in 1922 and graduated from the Royal Military College in 1942, at which time he joined the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada. He served with them in Italy, being wounded at the Naviglio Canal.

In 1946 he was transferred to the PPCLI, and has served at Edmonton and in Germany prior to the present appointment.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is reported to have told the Soviet ambassador that Russia's demand for removal of United States troops from West Berlin is totally unacceptable.

Kennedy met with Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin for an hour Tuesday night at the White House. In addition to the Berlin situation, they discussed Laos, disarmament and the problem of a ban on nuclear tests.

Dobrynin said on his return to the Soviet Embassy that "it would be improper for me to comment."

Kennedy intervened in United States-Soviet talks on the Berlin situation in the evident hope of overcoming any lingering belief in Moscow that the troops issue may be negotiable or that the United States would yield to threats and pressure and accept some kind of compromise for West Berlin's military protection.

The president's move came two days before State Secretary Dean Rusk leaves for Geneva where he plans to talk over the East-West-Berlin stalemate with Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko. The occasion for their gathering in Geneva will be the signing of accords on the neutralization of Laos.

BACKS RUSK

Thus the effect of Kennedy's action is to reinforce Rusk's position at a crucial stage of the United States-Soviet talks.

It was authoritatively reported that Kennedy's main concern in the session with Dobrynin was to emphasize personally the importance he attaches to the United States position that the Soviet demand for withdrawal of United States, British and French troops from West Berlin is not negotiable.

Khrushchev, however, has shown no sign of dropping his campaign to get the Western forces out of the isolated city.

Bugs Survive Flight

MOFFETT FIELD, Calif. (AP) — The 2,000 beetles which flew 1,800 miles across Canada in a balloon last weekend survived exposure to cosmic ray radiation of deep space, Ames Research Laboratory announced here Tuesday.

Monkeys and hamsters died on the same flight.

$44,957 PROGRAM

Street Light Plan Okayed by Saanich

A new policy aimed at shedding some light on urban Saanich streets was approved by council Monday.

At the same time councillors launched a $44,957 street lighting program for this year.

Under the new policy, council will initiate residential street lighting on an area basis.

This is a departure from the practice of waiting for residents to ask for street lighting under local improvement by-laws.

MORE ECONOMICAL

Municipal engineer explained that installing lights in a residential block or area at one time is more economical than doing a street here and there.

The lighting program approved by council is as follows:

1. Initiation of a street lighting program in the Cadboro Bay district.

Under this scheme street lights will be installed on the following streets: Cadboro Bay Road from Sinclair to Maynard; Killarney; Killarney Place; Sinclair Road from Pendennis to Pitcombe Place; Pitcombe Place; Penrhyn Street; from Pendennis to Hobbs; Killarney; Maynard; Scotton; Hobbs; Rowley and a portion of Arbutus Road and Queenswood Drive.

The project will cost $12,107, to be paid by homeowners over 10 years. It will average out to $7 a year per householder.

2. Relighting of main roads at a total cost of $29,650 to be shared by the municipality and residents.

This project takes in Tillamook, from Gorge Road to Trans-Canada Highway; Quadra, from Stobe Lane to Reynolds Road; Cedar Hill Crossroad, from Shelbourne to Braefoot; Richmond, from Newton to municipal boundary; Cadboro Bay Road from Sinclair to Maynard.

3. A $1,730 lighting program at dangerous intersections.

This project will see lights Highway at Vanalman; Trans-Canada Highway at Wilkinson; Trans-Canada Highway at Grange; Saanich Road at Vernon; Douglas at Boleskine and Cuduhel.

4—Replacement of obsolete single lights with Mercury vapor lights on a number of streets. This will cost $1,470.

Saanich Cow Awarded Silver Medal

A Saanich Jersey cow has been awarded a Canadian Jersey Cattle Club silver medal for production of milk and butterfat during 305 days ending last June.

Winner is Dogwood Heritage Marie, a four-year-old owned by Pat Hoole, Oldfield Road.

A hard worker, Marie produced 10,163 pounds of milk and 607 pounds of butterfat. She was just three pounds short of butterfat to win a gold medal.

NEEDED 610 POUNDS

A cow must produce at least 610 pounds of fat to win the higher award.

Winner of a silver medal last year, Marie is the daughter of Babacomb Junior Melody, also a champion milk producer.

Marie's owner has a herd of 25 head of milking cows and about 20 head of young stock. They are all purebred Jerseys.

AMONG 353 VICTORIA PUPILS voluntarily giving part of their summer holidays to the study of music are these French horn players, members of Greater Victoria schools' bands. This is the 14th year that instruction in instrumental music has been given at the summer school. Howard Denike is in charge of all seven classes at Victoria High School. Another 619 students are attending academie classes at Oak Bay Junior High School, but not so voluntarily. For the seventh year, those grade nine students who failed one or two subjects in June, can take summer classes to get necessary credits for passing into grade 10 in September. Academic class fees are paid by students themselves, while expenses of the instrumental classes are defrayed by a $5 charge to the students.

Seamen Dispute Threatens Smoke 'Truce' Pulp, Logging Industries

B.C. tug crews, casting ballots today on a six per cent wage increase over three years, could tie up the entire coastal pulp and logging industry if they eventually go on strike.

Monte Roberts On Holidays

The wage increase was recommended by a federal conciliation board. Seamen are employed by 28 towing firms including Island Tug and Barge Ltd., which has 40 to 50 engineers and 100 to 120 unlicensed personnel such as deckhands, oilers, cooks and seamen. Employers are represented by the B.C. Tow Boat Owners' Association, with whom negotiations were being conducted by Marine Engineers, Local 425, and Local 400, Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers (CLC).

Officials of the locals said a strike could cause a tie-up in the logging and pulp industries because tugs involved haul log booms and barges for the industries.

Not Official Says Edgelow

A moratorium on smoke by-law infractions does not exist because it never has been officially proclaimed, Ald Geoffrey Edgelow said today.

He was commenting on suggestions the city's own anti-smoke advisory board had broken the bylaw by ordering a suspension of prosecutions during an experimental "truce" period.

"Our advisory board has not met on this so we could hardly have acted illegally," he said.

"There has been no moratorium. We have never had any motion for one and there has been no official truce."

INFORMAL Ald, Edgelow, chairman of the advisory board, said informal meetings have been held between some board members and a committee of industry representatives at which a moratorium was discussed and recommended.

"But those were private sessions for purposes of liaison," he emphasized. "The joint meetings do not constitute an official council committee."

"The advisory board will meet on this next week, when we have a quorum, and decide what to recommend to council, if anything. There will be a full report to next council meeting."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Rev. William Branham, a Baptist minister from Jeffersonville, Indiana, will speak on "Praying for the Sick" at three inter-church meetings in Victoria. Curling Rink July 27 and 28 at 7:30 p.m., and July 29 at 3 p.m.

He is speaking at the Canadian Legion Hall, Port Alberni, July 24, 25, and 26 at 7:30 p.m.

Victoria Kennel Club will hold outdoor parlor show at 3771 Haro Road Saturday. The show is open to all purchased dogs over three months old and will include a class for novice handlers.

Awards include the Gillespie Cup and a special puppy trophy. The show will be opened by Lord Rodney at 1 p.m. Judges will be Mrs. Shellah Roberts and Miss Virginia Lyn.

Rev. Lawrence Sieber, new minister at Wilkeson Road and Garden City United churches, will be inducted at a service in the Wilkeson Road church on Friday, July 27, at 8 p.m.

City council today was asked to give financial aid so that the national junior lacrosse championships could be held here. The Canadian Lacrosse Association wrote that it is in serious financial difficulty and may have to cancel the junior championship event this year.

"With the centennial in Victoria this year, our executive wonder if it would be possible for the city of Victoria to give a grant toward the operation of the junior final which would be played in Victoria Sept. 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12, 14 and 15 if necessary," the letter said.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me just what this deal is? When you order breaded veal cutlets in most restaurants it seems that it is some kind of ground meat. What kind? W.F.C.

A. All local restaurants contacted insisted that whole veal cutlets are used.

Q. Is there a branch of the World Federalists in Victoria, and if so where can it be contacted? P.H.

A. Prof. C. S. Burchill, 1350 Dallas Road, EV 6-4910, is past president of the local branch.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor, Question and answers will be published daily. Drilling for soil tests began in the Inner Harbor Tuesday. Federal government engineers are conducting a survey of the harbor floor and the strength of the Causeway wall to assess problems involved in dredging. Survey, requested by City Hall, will be completed by mid-August.

A 21-year-old Sooke man is in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today after losing his right arm in a sawmill accident on Tuesday.

Barry McLeish, of 17 Game Road, was loading lumber near a travelling circular saw at Goodridge Sawmills. The saw severed his right arm below the elbow, Sooke RCMP said.

He was rushed to hospital by Sooke ambulance. Police said he had been working at the mill for only two weeks.

R. E. Avery will be the speaker at a meeting of the Kingdom Ministry (British Israel) in the Newstead Hall, 734 Fort Street, Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

A 19-year-old Sooke youth was fined $20 by Magistrate William Ostler in city police court today when he pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of liquor.

Police said William Alfred Brown was found to have a bottle of beer tucked inside his shirt on Gorge Road July 1.

Results of a board of inquiry into the death of RCN skindiver Lieut. Cmdr. Frank Bayfield Davis on June 14 have been sent to naval headquarters in Ottawa and will not be available for some time, a naval spokesman indicated today.

Lieut. Cmdr. Davis, 35, died while diving with SCUBA gear in shallow water in Esquimalt Harbor. It was the first death in the history of the RCN diving squad.

A board of inquiry into the death of RCN skindiver Lieut. Cmdr. Frank Bayfield Davis on June 14 have been sent to naval headquarters in Ottawa and will not be available for some time, a naval spokesman indicated today.

B.C. Telephone Co. and the Federation of Telephone Employees, representing 1,200 operators in the province, agreed to the report Tuesday.

Local members are being urged to reject a federal conciliation board majority recommendation of a six per cent wage increase over three years. The majority report made no recommendation for job security and union officials say the companies are slashing crews, making job security necessary.

Present base rates are from $346 to $333 a month for engineers and $300 a month for seamen.

'Pink Slipping' At Border To Be Watched B.C. officials will watch closely any renewed operations of a U.S. insurance office peddling "pink slip" coverage for tourists at the border.

The operation was closed down by Washington State Police Friday after complaints from tourists and officials of the B.C. attorney-general's department.

Signs outside a house trailer near Blaine said "B.C. requires pink cards" and "If you do not have a pink card your car is subject to impoundment."

"Four-day 'special coverage' for B.C. sold for $5."

An official of the Motor Vehicles Branch said it is true tourists should carry a pink card, but it is not true their cars will be impounded if they don't.

AGREEMENT Most U.S. insurance companies participate in an agreement worked out with the B.C. superintendent of insurance which provides coverage in B.C. at no extra cost to U.S. motorists.

The firms also issue pink cards for B.C. free on request. If a tourist involved in a serious accident does not have a pink card he is told to telephone his insurance company.

If the answer is "full coverage provided," his car is released—usually within hours after the accident.

If he has no insurance, the car is impounded.

Two basic essentials for any show are (a) the script and (b) the direction. Both struck me in this instance as not merely competent, but lively, inventive and knowledgeable.

These qualities are reflected in the cast which managed to be alight with interest and enthusiasm despite the evening's chill.

"Well, one thing about it—it may be cold tonight but if the weatherman gets it off his chest this week he'll probably warm things up by the end of next."

This was the sort of remark that expressed the prevailing optimism and good spirits.

Director Dudley Remus carries his own particular weather insurance. The secret is in his small beard. He is in his small beard. He grows and wears it for the whole rehearsal period of every outdoor show he directs and shaves it off only for opening night. It works like a charm every time, he claims.

SHOW STOPPER Good humor of the shivering crowd boiled up into some hearty belly laughs during a bit with Sir James Douglas and the Indians. The chief was invoking his gods to smile upon the pact between Indians and whites.

"From the south whence comes the warming wind..." intoned the narrator and temporarily stopped the show.

As for me, the experience not only whetted my appetite for a long, hot drink, but for opening night of what I suspect will be an interesting spectacular event, accurate as to detail but handled with the light, vivid showman's touch of the gifted professional.

Merchants to Fight Spread Of Duty-Free Shops In B.C. The Retail Merchants' Association of British Columbia, representing about 1,600 merchants, will present a brief to Attorney-General Bonner protesting any extension of duty-free stores in the province.

General manager Ray Hunt, Vancouver, says the brief will be presented to Mr. Bonner in about a month.

He says the association feels that the stores, from which American tourists can buy goods imported from Europe free of Canadian duty and provincial sales tax, are unfair to merchants.

Mr. Hunt says goods sold at the one duty-free store in B.C. at Sidney are between 20 and 30 per cent cheaper than in Victoria retail stores.

Mr. Hunt says the association will attempt to stop a duty-free store proposed for Vancouver International Airport in about two years.

"Every effort will be made to prevent the opening of another store in B.C.," he said.

10 Provincial Crests to Greet Premiers

Preparations are under way for a conference of provincial premiers which starts in Victoria Aug. 6.

Premiers of all 10 provinces have said they will attend. Two days of talks are planned in the Legislative Chamber, where desks have been arranged in a large oval.

Premier Bennett as host will make a welcoming speech. Quebec Premier Jean Lesage, architect of the annual conference, will be chairman.

The City of Victoria will host the premiers at a luncheon in Butchart Gardens Aug. 6.

Lieutenant Governor George Pearkes will hold dinners at Government House Aug. 6 and 7 for the premiers and their personal aides.

Aug. 8 the premiers will fly to Kelowna to see the annual Lakeside Regatta.

They'll return home individually.

This is the third premiers' conference. First was held in Quebec in 1960. Last year the conference was at Charlottetown, P.E.I.

The B.C. Legislative Buildings are being "dolled up" for the occasion.

Workmen today are installing 10 posts on the lawn outside the front entrance. Each post will bear the crest of a province. Canada's crest will hang above the main door.

The conference will be closed, and no details of the agenda have been announced. However, statements are expected each day on topics discussed.

FIVE RUN CLOSE RACE FOR CROWN

Second-to-last tally of centennial queen contestants was made Tuesday night, showing five girls almost neck and neck in the race for the crown.

Girls in the first of six groups, listed categorically according to votes received by the number of tickets each candidate sells to the pageant, were Jane Bowering, Pat Conrad, Carol Ann Howay, Brenda Lassila, and newcomer to this category, Delia Manak.

Final tally will be taken next Tuesday at 8 p.m. when the centennial queen contest ends. Winner will get a trip for herself and a companion to Hawaii, as well as featuring in the pageant at Athletic Park, July 28 to Aug. 4.

In other leading groups were: Group II—Arla Rendle, Joan Gaunt, Carol Scarfe, Candis Heath, Ann Cordick, Judy Rushton, Audrey Hayley.

Group III—Marlene Wilson, Lorraine Wood, Lynn Henderson, Heather Reinste, Claudia Spouse, Moira Jackson, Carole Borgens.

Group IV—Carole Dobbie, Carol Woolsey, Joan Crothall, Judy Frost, Marlene Bleakley, Joan Specht, Linda Bell.

BOB HOPE

Hope Arrives In Dreamland

While unsuspecting tourists strolled the Causeway with their cameras, Bob Hope eased into Victoria Inner Harbor this morning aboard the twin-screw 137-foot yacht Campana, sleeping like a babe.

Old Shovel-nose, one of America's most durable and best-loved comedians, was still incommunicado at press time, weary by brisk days at Seattle World Fair. But Campana's skipper, Bill Mounce of Vancouver, had a word to say about his wisecracking passenger.

"Hope's one of the best," declared Capt. Mounce with conviction. "He surely treated us well. The thing we've learned about him, this cruise, is that he's just as nice a guy in private as before the public."

Asked if Bob Hope were as free with a wisecrack when not performing, Capt. Mounce grinned.

"He can't help it," he said. "He's a born entertainer."

Campana, which homes at Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, is owned by Max Bell, Calgary sportsman and oil tycoon.

PAGEANT DIRECTOR HAS 'WEATHER INSURANCE'

Off With Beard... On With Show!

By AUREY S.D. JOHNSON Actors in Victoria's centennial pageant were about ready to give Vancouver Island back to the Indians Tuesday night.

Shivering in what felt like a sub-zero blustery wind, they jumped up and down, clutched each other, drank coffee and clapped hands.

But through it all everyone—directors, technicians, narrators and 100 or so members of the huge cast—remained cheerful and enthusiastic.

It was the first night's rehearsal at Royal Athletic Park where the pageant will be staged July 28 through Aug. 4.

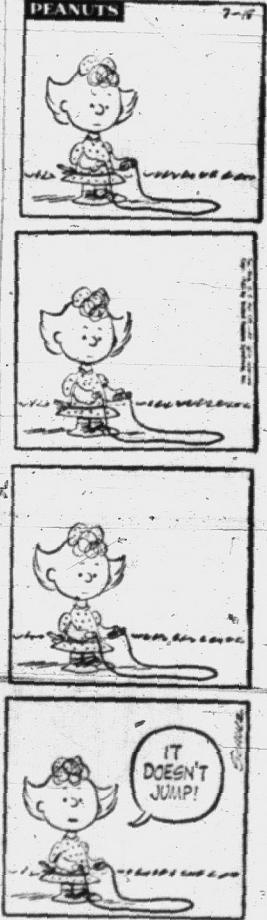

STOPS, STARTS Like every production moving from rehearsal quarters to actual site, the trial run of a few scenes was full of stops and starts, experimental phases and the hindrance of incomplete technical factors.

Nevertheless there were enough good ingredients for a "hep" observer to realize that the pudding, when done, is likely to prove well worth eating.

Two basic essentials for any

INDIANS HAD WHAT IT TOOK for a cold July night—blankets. Peggy Spence, left, and Win Blake were glad to huddle under their Scots plaid version at the outdoor rehearsal of the pageant, Tuesday.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Don't Use Common Scents, Be Exotically Perfumed

By PENNY SAVER

Perhaps your finances (or your children) make it impossible for you to travel now. Until your children are old enough to send you on your first trip to Europe or cruise to Hawaii, content yourself by dabbing oases of imported aroma daintily behind each ear.

You will almost hear the castanets clicking to heel-beating jota music when you've bathed yourself with delicately-scented soap from Spain, powdered each limb with talcum in the same scent and completed effect with a dab of cologne or lotion of this perfume that claims to be the best-scented in all Europe.

Bathe yourself like a duchess of Spanish beauties with a square cake of soap for 55 cents, or with bath-size round cakes which come in a box of three for $3.90.

After your exotic bath, dust all over with talcum at $1.65 a tin. Then complete your scent picture with a dab of lotion at $1 for a half-ounce bottle or touch of cologne which comes in bottles beginning at $1.45.

If these items sound familiar, it may be that you saw them on display in the Spanish village at the Seattle World Fair, says druggist where Penny shopped.

Travelling by scent, west instead of east, you can also perfume yourself with the illusion of grass-skirted maids swaying to lilting Hawaiian music on wide, sandy, sunny beaches, beside a sun-warm ocean on a well you have the setting in mind now surely.

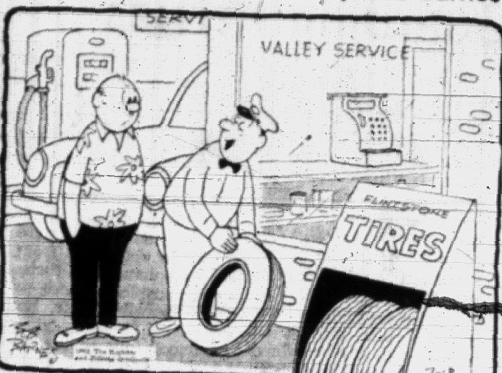

If not, floral perfumes made in Hawaii with Hawaiian flowers will put you in the mood. In solid form, there are scents like orchid, carnation, white ginger, plumeria, lani and pikaka, for $1.35 each.

Essences of same perfumes come in a set of five for $1.50, and cologne start at $2.35.

Call Penny at 382-3131 for name of drugstore which carries these enticing items.

'A Bird In the Bush'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I know my parents mean well but they are not on my side in a very important matter. I used to like a boy named Dick, but I lost interest in him. My parents are crazy about Dick and have practically made him a member of the family. They have told him he is welcome to come over any time, which he does. I would just as soon not have him around the house all the time as other boys stay away when they see his car parked outside. My parents say he comes to see them, not me, and I don't have to pay any attention to him. Do you think this is fair to me?

DEAR ABBY: You always preach that children should "honor their parents." I don't want to seem heartless, but it is my experience that people usually get back what they give. Just because they happen to be parents doesn't entitle them to "respect" they haven't earned. I know a widow who cries all over town that her children ignore her. Actually, all her life she made trouble for them with her wicked tongue and evil imagination. Now they want nothing to do with her. And who can blame them? Be fair, Abby, and print this to show the "other side of it."

DEAR SHELLEY: Your parents may "mean well" but they are certainly not being fair to you. Explain how Dick's car is a "scarecrow" keeping more

Bowler Hats and Pyjamas Make Fashion Headlines

FLORENCE (Reuters) — Princess Irene Galitzine of Rome Monday presented bowler hats and gala evening pyjamas on the third day of Italy's autumn-winter fashion showings here.

The bowlers were made of fur—black seaskin, brown beaver or pony skin—and had matching fur scarves.

BE SMART—

Clever accessories turn the fashion-wise femme doing the accessorizing. To help you femmes out just a little bit, we've got two extraordinary suggestions: first, a white leather belt with twin buckles to show off a tiny waist; second, a black linen bag—big enough to carry everything everywhere you go. White calfskin trim adds a summery touch.

High-style need not only be clothing fashions, it can be carried over into the foods you serve. And, what better way to herald in National Salad week which begins Thursday and lasts until July 28 than to surprise family and friends with a square "ring" molded salad like this? Add a few haute couture dishes and salad season is well launched.

Begin Salad Week With a Winner

With fashion hitting the headlines now you want to keep pace by entertaining in high style. And, it's a snap with new, interesting recipes like square "ring" molded salad. This salad combines the flavors of all sorts of favorite ingredients—canned crushed pineapple, apricot halves and pimento, Roquefort cheese and honeydew melon. Molded in a square pan the salad becomes a "ring" when a square is cut from the center.

Because it is a do-ahead salad it means time saved for you on entertaining day. The delicious canned fruits also serve as time-savers.

Make the rest of the meal high style, too. What's your favorite meat entree? This salad accompanies all well. Crown roast lamb, or a baked ham served flaming with lemon extract, is a steppin'-in style entree. Add potatoes and a green vegetable to accompany the meat you choose.

SQUARE "RING" MOLDED SALAD

Two tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin, 1 can (1 lb. 4 oz.) crushed pineapple, 2 tablespoons canned or bottled lemon juice, 4 cups creamed cottage cheese, 1/2 cup crumbled Roquefort, or blue cheese, 1/2 cup diced pimento, 1 cup whipping cream, 1 can (1 lb. 14 oz.) apricot halves, 2 cups honeydew, or other melon balls, crisp greens.

Mix sugar, salt and gelatin in a saucepan. Drain syrup from pineapple and add water if necessary to make 1 cup liquid. Add to gelatin mixture and heat slowly until gelatin is dissolved, stirring. Add lemon juice, cottage and Roquefort cheeses, pimento and drained pineapple; chill until partially thickened. Fold in whipped cream.

Pour into a 9" square pan and chill until firm. Unmold on serving plate. Cut a square from centre of mold and care-

Local Students Receive Mention In Art Contest

Two local high school students received honorable mention for their art entries in the recent 1962 CSEA-Hallmark Art Scholarships in the Alberta-British Columbia section.

They are Elizabeth Marilyn Strouts, 18, 928 Foul Bay Road, and Lloyd George Cook, 17, 3019 Carrol Street.

The announcement was made at a reception held in the Toronto Art Gallery. A total of 149 entries were submitted.

The collection will be exhibited at the Fine Arts Gallery of the Central Library in Toronto until the end of July and then put on tour to art galleries and schools for a year.

Veil Held With Forget-Me-Nots

A coronet of white forget-me-nots held the shoulder-length veil of Ethel Gertrude (Pat) Daniels when she entered First United Church for her marriage to Barry Harvey.

Her gown of lace was posed over taffeta and featured princess sleeves and scalloped hemline and neckline with pearls trimming the neckline. Pink roses and carnations were in her bouquet.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. N. Daniels, 306 Robertson Street, and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Harvey, 1457 Myrtle Avenue. Mr. Daniels gave his daughter in marriage.

Bill Wilson was best man and ushering guests were the groom's brother, Brian Harvey, and Derek Gay.

Red roses flanked the wedding cake that centred the head table at a reception which followed in Holyrood House.

Guests danced to the music of the Wayward Trio. Leaving on a honeymoon trip to California, the bride donned a coral suit and accessories en route.

Newlyweds will make their home at 1767 Coronation Avenue.

Family Reunion at Cordova Bay

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Pipes were hosts last Saturday afternoon in their Agate Lane home in Cordova Bay at a family barbecue party in honor of their daughter, Mrs. A. L. Steed, and her daughters, Barbara and Nancy. Guests of honor came from Fort Churchill, Man., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Pipes before leaving for their new home in Halifax. Lieut. Steed will meet his wife and children in Winnipeg.

Attending the family party were the Pipes' 17 grandchildren: Barbara and Nancy Steed; Shaun, Drew, Bobby, Paul and Donna Paterson; Kathy and Janet Karst; Ruth, Gregg and Julie Layne; Kippy, Ricki and Thane Pipes; and Susan and Karen Pipes. With their children were the six children of Mr. and Mrs. Pipes: Mr. and Mrs. Richard (Audrey) Paterson; Mr. and Mrs. M. (Glenna) Karst; Mr. and Mrs. Jack (Jacqueline) Pipes; Mr. and Mrs. Bill (Jocelyn) Pipes; Mrs. G. (Brownie) Layne; and Mrs. A. L. (Bev.) Steed.

Small Garden Parties Big Hit For Centennial United Church

Something new in the way of garden parties has been introduced this summer by the women of Centennial United Church.

Instead of a large annual church garden party, they have planned small weekly gatherings which are held at the homes of the various members.

"We find it keeps people together during the summer months, when otherwise we would scarcely see each other," said Mrs. B. A. Barr, general convener for the party held Tuesday afternoon at the Revercomb Place of Mrs. A. T. Schaddelee.

And the church members like it.

The weekly event not only provides a break in the week for the many husbands and wives who attend regularly, but it also brings in a sizeable amount of money for the church building fund.

For each party, members bring cakes, fruit, or hand-made articles for their "bring and buy" stall. If the weather is fine, the stall is set up in the host's garden; otherwise, it is put in one of the rooms in the house.

"Unfortunately, we've had most of our stalls inside this summer," remarked Mrs. Parsons, who attends each party with her husband, Dr. S. J. Parsons.

Last year, when the idea originated, it was found to be so successful that the church women planned a full-scale program again this summer.

Co-hostesses at Tuesday's gathering were Mrs. J. Boorman, Mrs. J. Clegg, Mrs. D. Farnden, Mrs. J. Schaddelee, and Mrs. W. Vanderstoep. Stall conveners were Mrs. B. Brooke and Mrs. F. Decker.

Next week's garden party will be held at the home of Mr. Oscar Vogel, 3700 Craigmillar Avenue. Parties will continue to August 22.

Wed in St. Andrew's Cathedral

Mr. and Mrs. John David Thomas Price received guests in front of large stone fireplace in Royal Colwood Golf Club at reception following their wedding Saturday evening in St. Andrew's Cathedral.

Bride is the former Miss Alexandra Victoria Drabinasty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter H. Drabinasty of Weldon, Sask. Groom's parents are Mrs. Olive Price, 1075 San Marino Crescent, and John Price, 2214 Sooke Road.

During ceremony, at which

Fr. B. Hanley and Fr. S. Chehovsky officiated, Miss M. McKay played wedding music and George Humeston sang "Pater Noster." Bride was given in marriage by her father.

Dark-haired bride wore a pure silk gown of classic elegance, featuring a bodice with contour neckline and lily point sleeves. Back waist was adorned with two hand-made French roses and full-length skirt swept back to a cathedral train. Her train-length court veil pouffed from a sparkling jewelled tiara. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gardenias.

Matron of honor, Mrs. H. Imlach; bridesmaid, Mrs. D. Campbell, and bridesmaid, Miss Patricia Drabinasty, were gowned in hedge green silk organza. Matching floral head-dresses and cascade bouquets of ivy and gladioli in tones of yellow, gold and coral completed their ensembles.

Peter Winter was best man while Hamish Simpson, Colin Creighton, Lawrence Johns and Harold Robinson ushered guests to their pews. At the reception Donald K. Smyth proposed the toast to the bride.

Topping the bride's traveling suit of Italian knit was a Balenciaga coat in starlight blue French corduroy. Contour hat of white woven straw, navy accessories and white gardenia corsage completed her outfit.

Following a honeymoon in southern California, the couple will make their home at 1400 Newport Avenue.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Attractive Eyeglasses Enhance Appearance

Women no longer need to dread wearing eyeglasses; they have become a flattering accessory.

Since there is such variety in style, shape, color and decoration, it is a wise woman who selects her glasses with the same care she uses when buying a hat or a dress. If Lowman she does this, her glasses will add to her attractiveness.

Many women do not take advantage of this variety. Today the choice is so much greater than it ever was before. If you can afford it, you will profit by an eyeglass wardrobe. You can have some stunning ones for tailored and sports clothes, and delicate, dressier ones for more formal occasions.

Those who wear glasses should avoid veils, fussy hairdos and too much jewelry. All of these put together can give you a cluttered appearance.

ance. Simplicity is one of the rules for chic.

Sunglasses are extremely important for a woman, especially during summer when the sun is so bright and she is outdoors more of the time. These are extremely restful when travelling, whether on a train or in a car. The sun's glare not only is tiring, but it causes us to squint. The sun is a good friend, but many a woman has discovered new, small lines at the corners of her eyes at the end of the hot season. Her skin has been dried out somewhat by the sun's rays, and she also has squinted at Mr. Sun.

Even if you do not use an eye cream usually, why not pat some around your eyes each night before going to sleep during the summer? The tissue about the eyes is extremely delicate and is quick to crinkle.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Looking Straight and Pretty," which gives you suggestions about the shape of frames for different shaped faces, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 55 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Parties for Bride-Elect

Bride-elect Miss Patricia Creighton, whose marriage to Don Anthony Delaney, takes place on Saturday, has been honored at several showers recently.

At a linen shower held in the home of Miss Judy Rutledge on Foul Bay Road, Miss Creighton was presented with a decorated box with a bride doll lid containing gifts. She also received a corsage of red roses, while her mother, Mrs. L. Creighton, was presented with a pink gladioli corsage.

Attending the shower were Mrs. G. Rutledge, Mrs. D. Peasland, and the Misses Ann McEwen, Dorothy Farley, Donna Peck and Maryanne McCormick. Also invited were Mrs. N. Alexander, Mrs. M. Plachner and Miss Sandy Colmer.

Yellow roses were presented to the bride-elect at a surprise shower in the Athlone Street home of Miss Dorothy Farley. Mrs. Creighton and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. A. Delaney, wore pink carnations. Attending were Mrs. P. Farley, and the Misses Darlene Hendry, Marcia Henly, Eveline Nolin, Maren Pedersen, Barbara Gordon, Sandra Pritchard, Marg Magee, Pat Farley, Loretta Creighton, Theresa James, Patricia Lucas, Ann McEwen and Judy Rutledge.

At a shower in the Boleskine home of Mrs. W. Udyk, Miss Creighton, her mother, Mrs. A. Delaney, and the bride's grandmothers, Mrs. A. Costello and Mrs. M. Creighton, received pink rose corsages.

Guests included Mrs. H. Crompton, Mrs. K. Hornsby, Mrs. G. Nolin, Mrs. H. McKeever, Mrs. C. Stewart, Mrs. M. Leard, Mrs. C. Harkness, Mrs. E. Lindley, and the Misses Dot Leard, Dorothy Farley, Judy Rutledge, Sharlene Lindley and Loretta Creighton.

Also invited were Mrs. A. Perry, Mrs. E. Pridham, Mrs. S. Anderson, Mrs. F. Costello, Miss G. Pridham and Miss E. Nolan.

Girls Shy

ST. VITAL, Man. (CP) — Curtains were ordered for the girls' shower room at Glenlawn Collegiate after the school board found girls preferred privacy. They had not been used by the girls since their installation. The boys' section has been in constant use without curtains.

Vows Heard In Garden

Attractive grounds of the bride's parents' home was setting for double-ring ceremony that united Kathleen Mary Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis J. Clark, 1415 Fairfield Road and Georgeus Albert ten Wolde, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. ten Wolde of Steenwijk, Holland. Rev. Stanley Sears officiated.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was lovely in a gown of white brocade cut on classic lines. Chapel length veil of silk illusion net misted from a coronet of mother-of-pearl sequins. Stephanotis and carnations in tangerine tones were in the bouquet.

Only attendant was matron of honor Mrs. Richard McCarthy who chose a gown of light blue brocade and white carnation bouquet. Art Allen was best man.

Receiving guests at the reception which followed, the bride's mother wore a beige suit complemented with pink accessories and pink rosebud corsage.

Hugh Farquhar proposed the toast to the bride. White roses, in a dainty silver vase, topped the three-tier wedding cake that centred the head table.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. L. ten Wolde and Mr. and Mrs. Art Allen, all from Quesnel, B.C.; Mrs. R. Hobson with Karen and Brit and Miss Apple ten Wolde, all of Vancouver and Miss Mengia Semadeni, Penticton.

As her going-away outfit the bride chose a green wool suit with toning silk overblouse, white picture-hat and white accessories and corsage of tangerine-shaded roses.

Honeymoon was spent motoring to Cowichan Lake and then through the Okanagan Valley en route to Terrace where the newlyweds are now making their home.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

PARIS — Orson Welles is launching a one-man campaign for shorter movies.

"My next picture may not be the best, but it'll be the shortest one you've seen in several years," Welles said in his laughing, booming voice here the other night. "I hate long anything but long movies especially."

Welles pulled a large cigar.

Now Many Wear FALSE TEETH

With More Comfort

FASTTEETH, a pleasant alkaline (non-acid) powder, holds false teeth more firmly to eat and talk in more comfort. Just sprinkle a little FASTTEETH on your plates. No gummy, rooky, pasty taste or feeling. Checks "white odor" (denture breath). Get FASTTEETH at any drug counter.

and tossed down some coffee. We were at the Gare D'Orsay, "the biggest railroad station in the world and the emptiest."

"It's celebrated," Welles said, waving around at the high ceilings. "Chiefs of state used to arrive here. Now just a few trains take discouraged passengers out of here."

Welles, Tony Perkins and Romy Schneider were shooting Kafka's "The Trial" here and in Yugoslavia.

"On a Saturday night I wondered where we were going to shoot Monday. I worried about it all night. About five in the morning I looked out my hotel window and saw what looked like a moon with some figures on it."

So Welles rented it and refers to it as "my private railway station." He is currently trying to cut the picture down to under two hours in one of the spooky, cowwebby, otherwise deserted rooms.

"Several years ago in Hollywood they said I'd gone berserk when I made a picture called 'The Magnificent Ambersons' which was just under two hours. Now even the shorts are two hours long. No picture is supposed to be any good unless you age and turn white-haired and feeble while you're watching it."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL IN NEW YORK — Sportscaster Mel Allen busted a finger in a bathtub fall. Author William L. Shirer says his "Fall of France" may be even longer than his fat "Rise and Fall of the Third Reich."

Edward G. Robinson, recovering from a heart attack, says, "I feel I'm letting people down—I've never held up production of a movie in my life."

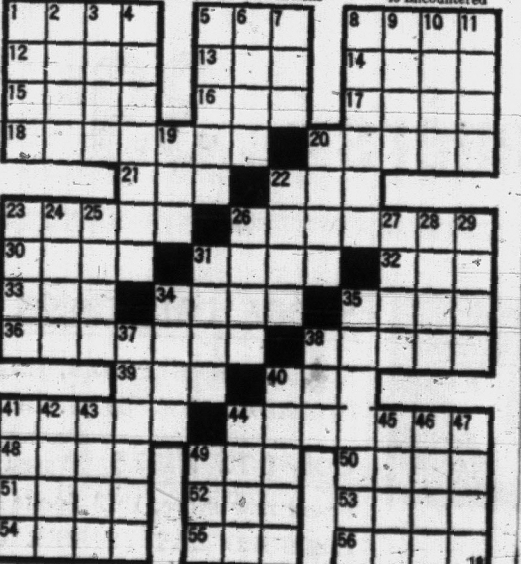

Connie Francis will record an album of songs in Japanese, for release in Nippon. Dave Garraway said on the "Talent Scouts" TV that his signoff word, "Peace," has become overused; he now says "Courage."

Wish I said that: The best way to get your wife's undivided attention is to tell her that it's none of her business. EARL'S PEARLS: Nothing gives a man more leisure time than always being punctual for appointments. That's earl, brother.

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books, or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions on a selection to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Ed Oliverio, age 16, of Willow Dale, Ont., for his question:

Where Do Fogs Come From?

It may be a morning mist, draping the scenery with a filmy veil. It may be a dense white blanket over the sea. Over a city, it may be a thick curtain dark enough to turn noon into midnight. Fogs come in various qualities and they are formed by various weather conditions. But all of them are made from vapor, the gaseous form of water in the air.

The particles which form a cloudy fog are microscopic droplets of water. They measure from one-hundredth part to one-tenth of a millimeter, and droplets of all sizes may be present in the same fog. The tiny particles are widely separated by the air in which they float, but countless trillions of them cast a veil over the scenery or shut out the view altogether.

A clean white or greyish fog is made only from vapor in the air which has been condensed into liquid droplets. You often form a miniature fog when you breathe out warm, moist air on a frosty morning. When nature's fogs tangle with the soot and grime of a busy city we get a dark pea-soup mixture of fog particles and floating grime.

The air is always thirsty and ready to gather a load of vapor by evaporating the moisture on the face of the earth. But the air can hold so much vapor and no more and when its quota is filled, it reaches saturation point. Warm air can hold more vapor than cool air and when saturated air is cooled, some of its surplus vapor must be turned back again into liquid moisture.

Form When Moist Air Cools

Fogs and clouds form when warm, moist air is cooled and there are several weather conditions which can cause this to happen. On a clear night, the ground soon loses the heat it gained during the day and the air temperature falls. The air may now contain more than its quota of vapor which is then turned into the tiny droplets which form a fog.

The dense, white fogs off Newfoundland are caused by a clash between the warm air over the Gulf Stream and the cold air over the Labrador current. Fogs also form when warm, moist air blows over a chilly surface. Rising air tends to cool and form foggy patches on the mountain slopes. All these fogs are formed because the air has been cooled and left with a surplus of vapor which must be turned into tiny droplets of liquid water.

SALAD NEEDS are FRESHER... COST LESS at SUPER-VALU

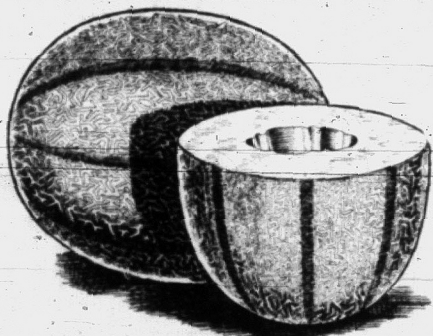

Tossed Green Salad

Choose carefully several different kinds of young, tender greens from among the various types of lettuce, as well as some sharper, lasting greens like spinach, chard, escarole, endive and chicory. Wash the greens well in cold water; dry carefully in a towel or a French salad basket. Tear greens apart with fingers into a bowl and place in refrigerator to crisp until before using. Toss greens and dressing at the table before serving. If a commercial oil dressing is used, add a little at a time, toss over and over until greens are shiny and well coated and no dressing remains in the bottom of the bowl. If a French dressing is used, the oil should be put in first and the greens tossed until covered. Then add a little vinegar and some salt and pepper.

'WE'VE GOT SOMETHING FOR EVERYBODY'

It's That Time Again at Sooke

There will be entertainment aplenty at All-Sooke Day Saturday.

Bob Waters, in charge of the program, says that "We've got something for everybody."

"There's everything from log-birding and a marathon to a baby show and a pie-eating contest."

"What more could you ask?"

It all adds up to the usual entertaining program, with the emphasis on boosting Sooke. This involves a complex mish-mash of logging sports, dancing, a ladies' nail-driving contest, marathons and barbecued salmon.

While All-Sooke Day is Saturday, the program actually gets under way at 5:30 p.m. Friday when a number of athletes will line up in front of City Hall for the start of the annual Victoria-Sooke marathon.

Twenty-four sweaty miles later, the runners will struggle into Sooke Flats, where they will run head-on into, of all things, a session of dancing on the green. While the marathoners are on the road, local residents will whoop it up with square dances and what-have-you to while the time away.

The program gets under way in earnest Saturday at 12:30 p.m. with races for both children and adults. Included in this category is the pie-eating contest, which sees youngsters of all shapes and sizes covered with blueberry jelly from head to breakfast.

Another novelty highlight should be the grease pole climb. Officials, who may or may not be accused of a trace of sadism, tack a $5 bill on top of a 15-foot pole which has been liberally laced with grease and then let the youngsters try to get it. It's as messy as it sounds.

At 2 p.m. Lieutenant Governor George Pearkes will officially open the program and officials will launch the logging sports.

These include tree chopping from springboards, axe-throwing, log rolling (in which contestants push logs up an incline with a peavee), and log bucking (sawing through logs with both hand and power saws).

Other logging highlights will be the square timber chopping (in which the plucky contestant stands on a 12-inch block of wood and then neatly splits it in half with well-placed axe-strokes between the feet) and high rigging, where Kelly Stanley of Kosmo Wash, will defend the championship he won last year. He climbed a 90-foot spar-tree and rang a bell at the top in 33 seconds.

Expected to grab a major share of attention are the famous Wickhem brothers of Sooke. Ardie, the world champion log-birler, and brother Jubel, his most consistent competitor, will test the new plastic-lined pool that is being constructed so that spectators will not have to watch from the river bank.

Maywell Wickhem will stage an exhibition of spring-board topping, a rather spectacular event in which he climbs a 20-foot tree by making a succession of cuts for springboards like a circular staircase.

There will also be a chance for the ladies to star in a nail-driving contest and a baby contest.

And then there's the gourmet division. Over half a ton of fresh spring salmon will be barbecued over an alder-wood fire (it has to be alderwood, but no one seems to know why), and those who don't like fish will be able to sample beef barbecued Leechtown style. This involves burying 25-pound chunks of beef in the midst of a pit of glowing alderwood coals for about 12 hours.

The day will wind up with a dance in the Sooke Community Hall starting at 9 p.m.

And when that's over everyone should be ready for a little rest.

Toronto Gets New Art Group

TORONTO (CP) — Twelve Torontonians met Tuesday night to form the Toronto Arts Theatre Foundation, an organization they hope will provide a mecca for Canadian actors and playwrights and a home of good entertainment for play-goers.

Temporary chairman of the foundation is Leonard Kelly, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Toronto Eglinton.

Among the speaker's was Eumonn Martin, Toronto insurance man, sometime actor and bookish friend of Irish playwright Brendan Behan, who said the foundation hopes to do for Toronto what the Abbey Theatre has done for Ireland.

Mr. Martin said the foundation's objective will be to provide Toronto with a commercially successful, artistically acceptable and professional popular theatre.

LAUDS MANITOBA CENTRE
Toronto actor-director Sean Mulcahy told the meeting Winnipeg's Manitoba Theatre Centre has been producing "the highest type of drama for eight years."

"But Toronto, with its great population, has nothing closely resembling this."

Mr. Martin said first production of the foundation is to be Behan's "The Quare Fellow."

The foundation hopes eventually to have a 700-seat theatre. Mr. Martin estimated total cost of the centre at $2,000,000.

Beef Specialist Named Assistant To Commissioner
Appointment of R. L. Wilkinson as assistant livestock commissioner for the B.C. government in Victoria was announced Tuesday by Agriculture Minister Frank Richter.

Mr. Wilkinson is a beef specialist.

"This should be a decided asset to the department in its policies in placing strong emphasis on the production of more beef in B.C. to meet the evident greater demand created by our constantly increasing population," said Mr. Richter.

Black Market Hay Costs $60 a Ton
TRENTON, N.J. (CP) — Cows have become victims of a hay black market due to the drought, says the governor of New Jersey. Governor Richard J. Hughes said Tuesday hay which normally sells for $30 a ton is currently selling at $50 to $60 a ton.

TCA AIRLINER LANDS ON BELLY; NONE HURT

MONTREAL (CP) — All 33 passengers and crew of four were reported safe and uninjured today following an emergency belly landing of a Trans-Canada Air Lines Viscount aircraft at Gander, Nfld.

A TCA spokesman said the passengers were taken to hospital for routine examination, but no one was reported injured.

He said the emergency landing occurred after the pilot of the airliner, Capt. William Gwynn of Montreal, discovered, shortly after take-off from Gander, that the nose-wheel would not function. The main landing gear, however, was functioning properly.

ISLAND ROUNDUP

Oct. 5 Vote Set For Ganges Gymn

GANGES—Trustees of Gulf Island School District have agreed to submit a referendum to ratepayers asking if they favor construction of a $162,350 gymnasium-auditorium and science room at Ganges School.

The referendum will be held Oct. 5.

If approved, Salt Spring taxpayers will pay 70 per cent of costs and taxpayers of other islands 30 per cent.

Payment will be over 20 years.

DUNCAN — Damage to a $44,000 43-foot pleasure craft which struck a reef in Genoa Bay waters Sunday, and was beached to stop her from sinking, is estimated at $2,500.

There were 11 Seattle passengers aboard the vessel when a reef tore a one-foot hole in the vessel's bottom.

Ken Wise, skipper of the boat registered in the name of Dr. Tom Ables of Seattle, beached the pleasure craft in a matter of minutes.

The vessel is being repaired at Maple Bay Marina and Shipyard Ltd. at Bird's Eye Cove.

DUNCAN — The Junior Chamber of Commerce has urged all businesses and service clubs to take part in the Cowichan Exhibition parade commemorating Duncan's 50th birthday.

The parade will be held on Saturday, Sept. 8, the opening day of the Cowichan Fall Fair.

CHEMAINUS — Colin Cameron, newly-elected MP for Nanaimo, Cowichan and the Islands, pleaded not guilty in police court here to a charge of "permitting the presence of election posters without having obtained permission from North Cowichan municipality."

He was remanded until July 26.

NANAIMO — Council will meet the Nanaimo Hospital Board here to discuss further the reservation of city-owned land for a proposed psychiatric clinic.

The land adjoins the new hospital and in the past year it has been the subject of talks between the board and council.

Council decision to meet hospital officials followed receipt of a letter from hospital administrator Gordon Frith who intimated that the city had not lived up to a "gentlemen's agreement" to reserve the land.

13,000 Lose Jobs

CHICAGO (AP) — The American railroads notified their union operating personnel Tuesday that economy and other steps recommended by a presidential commission will be put into effect Aug. 16. J. E. Wolfe, chairman of the railroads' bargaining committee, said the move means elimination during the next year of about 13,000 firemen employed as second men on diesel locomotives in freight and yard services.

FOXY, the Broadway-bound musical which got its premiere at the festival, still was on nightly and ticket sales were showing an improvement after dropping sharply following opening night.

A documentary film festival is being given daily screenings, the entire 1962 spring collection of London fashion-designer Norman Hartnell is on display and several genuine gold nuggets have been discovered by visitors panning in the festival's proven gold claim.

Laboratory Held Up By Austerity

Construction start on a new livestock pathology laboratory for the B.C. government at Abbotsford has been "temporarily suspended" a works official said Tuesday.

Directors of Cowichan Agricultural Society have written to Agriculture Minister Frank Richter asking why the building has not yet been started.

Mr. Richter said the project was delayed earlier this year for changes in plans based on improvements suggested in Ottawa.

"As far as I know plans are pretty well complete now," he said.

Site is already acquired, he added, and the project is now in the hands of the works department.

The works official said tenders could be called "at a very early date" but the project is suspended because of Canada's financial crisis and Ottawa's new austerity drive.

He said B.C. is waiting to see how new Ottawa policy will affect the project before planning a definite date for a start.

TO DISPEL ANTI-SEMITISM CHARGES

Jew Gets Top Soviet Job

LONDON (Reuters). Veniamin Dymshyts took over his new duties today as Soviet deputy premier in a government shuffle that made him the first Jew to gain a top Soviet-government post since 1957.

Dymshyts, 52, also took over the key post of chairman of the state planning committee, replacing Vladimir Nefedov who has been moved to "another post." The Soviet news agency Tass reported Tuesday night.

He has been mentioned by Khrushchev as an example to dispel charges of anti-semitism in Russia.

Dymshyts was the latest of a succession of Jews to hold prominent posts in the Soviet government and the Soviet Communist party.

The last leading Jew was the now-disgraced Lazar M. Kaganovich who also held the post of Soviet deputy premier during the era of Joseph Stalin. He was regarded as the late Soviet ruler's top troubleshooter.

Kaganovich was ousted from the Soviet leadership in June, 1957, and figured as one of the "anti-party" leaders condemned by Premier Khrushchev at the 22nd Soviet Communist party congress in Moscow last October.

Dymshyts, in addition to his new government posts, is a member of the Communist party central committee and a deputy in the Supreme Soviet parliament.

Dymshyts' new appointment came in the wake of a series of allegations by Jews in the West that anti-semitism has been growing in the Soviet Union.

However, Soviet leaders have repeatedly denied the allegations.

ASTRONAUT ARMS OPEN FOR FIRST SPACEWOMAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's first man in orbit John H. Glenn Jr., testified today that when a qualified woman shows up for space exploration he and other spacemen "will welcome her aboard with open arms."

But Glenn, astronaut Scott Carpenter, and top officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration agreed this would not happen any time soon.

Testifying at a House space subcommittee hearing on alleged sex discrimination in space, he denied there was any specific bar against women as astronauts.

They said the simple fact was that no women had qualified, and none were likely to because of rigid qualifications, including previous test pilot experience.

SPACE BALLOON

'Big Shot' Test Success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The largest U.S. space vehicle ever sent aloft—a balloon that inflated to the height of a 13-storey building—was rocketed 950 miles above the Atlantic today as a forerunner of an advance Echo communications satellite.

The gleaming silvery sphere, dubbed "Big Shot," provided a brief but spectacular show for ground observers in the Cape Canaveral area as it separated from the Thor booster, expanded to its full 135-foot diameter, and drifted across the pre-dawn sky. It was visible for nearly 10 minutes before becoming obscured by haze and cloud.

During the time it was in sight it appeared as a brilliant yellow object, brighter than any stars in the sky.

Clouds apparently confined observation of the big ball to the cape area.

Today's shot was to determine whether the balloon would expand and hold its form after being sent aloft. There were no communications tests.

ANNOUNCES SUCCESS

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced success of the mission, which paves the way for launching a similar balloon into orbit later this year as the Echo II experimental communications satellite.

After rising to 950 miles the balloon plunged back and burned up as intended in the earth's atmosphere. Death of the sphere occurred about 23 minutes after the 5:30 a.m. EDT launching, some 600 miles south of the cape.

"Big Shot" is easily the largest U.S. package ever sent into space. However, many U.S. satellites have weighed much more than its 310 pounds.

A television camera mounted in the head of the Thor booster rocket today sent "live" pictures of the balloon inflation to a monitor on the cape. Officials reported they were of excellent quality and clearly showed the inflating of the balloon after it was released from a canister in the nose of the Thor.

Canadian Knife Victim

MOGADISCIO, Somaliland (AP) — The Somali government issued a stern warning today against religious intolerance, following the fatal stabbing of a Mennonite missionary from Canada.

The newspaper Corriere della Somalia, which reflects government views, said the killing of Merlin Grove, 33, of Markham, Ont., had "no justification at all in these modern times."

Grove was stabbed to death Monday night. His wife was wounded seriously.

Riots Erupt After Coup In Peru

(Times News Services)

LIMA — A military junta seized power in Peru today and disorders broke out after members appeared at the government palace for swearing-in ceremonies.

Demonstrators shouting "we want our civil rights; we have no legal guarantees" started stoning police cars.

Police sprayed the demonstrators with colored water so that agitators could later be identified. No shots were fired. Demonstrations were also reported in other parts of the capital. In one section three rock-throwing students were reported wounded after police opened fire on them.

The armed forces seized power from President Manuel Prado.

The national radio, which is controlled by the army, said the reason for Prado's overthrow was that "it has been determined that there was fraud in the electoral process" in the June 10 presidential election.

The radio said constitutional guarantees have been suspended. Prado himself was seized when a column of 50 tanks and armored cars rolled up to the presidential palace before dawn this morning and threw a ring of men and weapons around the building.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States announced a suspension of diplomatic relations with Peru.

Wonder Drug Secrets 'Pirated' From Firm

MONTREAL (CP) — The Gazette says American Cyanamid has taken damage actions totalling $10,000,000 against an American drug manufacturer and a former Toronto man, alleging piracy of its trade secrets.

The actions taken in New York County Supreme Court demand $5,000,000 damages from Kim Laboratories and its president, Dr. Sidney Martin, and $5,000,000 from Elio Salvetti, formerly of Toronto, who is alleged to have been the go-between in the alleged piracy operation.

The Gazette quotes John Bertram, manager of Medical Products of Cyanamid of Canada Limited, as saying former employees stole complex cultures and top-secret formulas of wonder drugs and sold them. The piracy was alleged to have been committed during a period of three years.

The newspaper says Cyanamid claims its stolen secrets, including complicated manufacturing processes that took as long as 15 years to develop, were sold to Italian manufacturers. Italy has no patent laws to protect drug formulas.

Doctors Drop Demand For Suspension of Act

Major Break In Dispute

SASKATOON (CP) — The Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons today withdrew its demand that the government suspend the controversial Medical Care Insurance Act.

The move was announced by Dr. H. D. Delgleish, president of the college, in a speech to the CCF provincial convention.

He proposed that the act be changed at a special session of the legislature, but said the amendments must first be agreed upon by the college and the government.

Doctors would resume normal practice after passage of the amendments, the college president said. Since the start of the boycott the college has demanded suspension of the Medical Care Insurance Act as a prior condition to opening negotiations with the government on a new plan.

The college also had said doctors would not return to normal practice unless the act was suspended. Dr. Delgleish said his new proposal calls for amendments to allow any doctor who chooses to practise outside the act "without any provision of the act applying to him."

The college also wants changes dealing with payments for medical services and the operation of existing health insurance agencies.

Could Assign Payment to Agency

Dr. Delgleish proposed an amendment that would permit a person who receives medical service to "assign to any health insurance agency his right to payment from the (medical care insurance) commission."

The commission is the government agency that administers the government plan. In another development indicating new attempts at settlement of the bitter dispute, Lloyd indicated Tuesday night the act which it says the government is not insisting the doctors return to practice before calling a special session, the medical profession.

The premier said he would write a stipulation now dictating new attempts at settlement of the dispute into the act. It would also be close at hand, Premier Lloyd indicated Tuesday night the government is not insisting the doctors return to practice before calling a special session, the medical profession. The premier declined to say anything further when asked Tuesday night about the mounting speculation that behind the scenes negotiations are taking place.

Joint Announcement Rumored on Pact

The Canadian Press quotes an "informant" as saying he sat down and try to settle their differences. The source said nothing had been done on an announcement that the government would call a special session early next week and that the doctors would return to work at the same time. It was learned positively that the premier and Dr. Delgleish had reached an agreement. Continued on Page 2

CCF Would Hit License Method

SASKATOON (CP) — Removal of the licensing powers of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons is demanded in at least five resolutions slated to come before the annual convention of the Saskatchewan CCF party.

The resolutions, which call for transfer of the licensing power to the University of Saskatchewan, are to be debated in closed convention panel sessions tonight and Thursday.

They are among 50 resolutions introduced by CCF constituency organizations, dealing with the medical care situation. Prepared before implementation of the controversial Medical Care Insurance Act July 1, the resolutions oppose the government stand. The proposals go before the general session of the annual convention of the CCF Saskatchewan section of the New Democratic Party Friday.

The resolutions also include a proposal by the Prince Albert organization that the government pass legislation making it an offence for doctors to refuse treatment under the act.

A resolution from Cumberland riding says the college's exclusive licensing right is being used "to force doctors into line," and that doctors favorable to the medical care scheme "need assurance of protection from persecution." A resolution from Brougham recommends changing the medical care licensing authority if the college attempts "to interfere with the recruiting of doctors from elsewhere."

The Agricultural and Horticultural Society met yesterday in the Messrs. Franklin's auction rooms, Chief Justice Cameron in the chair. Dr. Tolmie was re-elected president; A. C. Anderson and Hon. John Tod, vice-presidents; and J. T. Pidwell, secretary. Directors for the next two years will be Messrs. George Deanes, McKenzie, Harris, Skinner, Trutch, Sprout and Coles. The meeting also approved a motion by Mr. Anderson, in which the names of two members (G. T. Gordon and J. D'Ewes) be ignominiously expelled. The gentlemen in question left the colony after misappropriating funds.

Cabinet Appointments Delayed by Diefenbaker

DR. SOBLEN LOSES PLEA IN U.K. COURT

LONDON (AP) — The British High Court refused today Dr. Robert Soblen's plea to be set free on British soil but gave him permission to appeal the decision. Court observers estimated the appeal, even if denied, would delay Soblen's deportation to the United States for perhaps six weeks. They estimated it would take that long to complete the process in the court of appeal. If he loses the appeal, Dr. Soblen still would have pending a request to the home office for asylum as a political refugee.

SAFE STAKEOUT Yegas Bite On RCMP 'Bait'

DAWSON CREEK (CP) — Police circulated false information about the contents of a safe here and Tuesday arrested three men who bit.

The safe, containing cancelled cheques and other documents, was stolen during the weekend from the Imperial Oil Company's bank plant, then later abandoned.

Castro Death Plan

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A dark-haired, nervous young man identified as a captured counter-revolutionary leader said in a taped interview on Havana television Tuesday night that he and his group had planned to assassinate Cuban Premier Fidel Castro. In answer to reporters' questions, Juan Falcon said the plot against Castro and other government chiefs fell through because several members of his revolutionary recovery movement were taken prisoner.

HEAVY DAMAGE

Tornados Slash Alberta

EDMONTON (CP) — A family huddled in their home 60 miles west of Edmonton Tuesday as a tornado, slashed through their farm yard, ripping apart four buildings and causing about $3,000 damage. Crops were leveled.

It was one of three tornados reported in central Alberta during a violent mid-afternoon electrical storm. No injuries were reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Alec Wolodko of Seba Beach said they saw the tornado approaching their farm.

Mrs. Wolodko said the family huddled in their home when the tornado tore past them, missing the house by 50 feet.

"The house shook so much the nails were coming out of the walls and bricks were coming out of the chimney,"

Mr. Wolodko said the tornado smashed two garages, a tool shed and a chicken coop, and estimated damage at $3,000.

A wagon in the yard was picked up and hurled 30 feet and a heavy moving machine was tossed on top of a 45-gallon oil drum. The tornado snapped huge electric power poles like twigs.

Trees 30 inches in diameter were uprooted and tossed broken and shattered across a meadow on the Wolodko farm.

A second tornado was seen near Millet, 30 miles south of Edmonton, but no reports of damage or injuries have been received from the area.

The third funnel struck an area near Swan Falls, about 110 miles northeast of here. It cut a swath five miles long and 300 feet wide through heavy bush, uprooting trees six inches in diameter.

The tornados skirted Edmonton, but heavy rain and lightning hit the city, turning the Edmonton exhibition grounds into a sea of mud and water and flooding more than 600 basements and a number of traffic subways.

That new U.S. balloon, the one they call the 'Big Shot,' drifts silently through space... wish some of our local windbags'd do likewise!

Used to have revolutions in South America, but now it's a junta. As the boys say, same difference.

10 Provincial Crests to Greet Premiers

Preparations are under way for a conference of provincial premiers which starts in Victoria Aug. 6. Premiers of all 10 provinces have said they will attend. Two days of talks are planned in the Legislative Chamber, where desks have been arranged in a large oval. Premier Bennett as host will make a welcoming speech. Quebec Premier Jean Lesage, architect of the annual conference, will be chairman. The City of Victoria will host the premiers at a luncheon in Butchart Gardens Aug. 6. Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will hold dinners at Government House Aug. 6 and 7 for the premiers and their personal aides.

Aug. 8 the premiers will fly to Kelowna to see the annual Lakeside Regatta. They'll return home individually. This is the third premiers' conference. First was held in Quebec in 1960. Last year the conference was at Charlottetown, P.E.I. The B.C. Legislative Buildings are being "dolled up" for the occasion. Workmen today are installing 10 posts on the lawn outside the front entrance. Each post will bear the crest of a province. Canada's crest will hang above the main door. The conference will be closed, and no details of the agenda have been announced. However, statements are expected each day on topics discussed.

FIVE RUN CLOSE RACE FOR CROWN

Second-to-last tally of centennial queen contestants was made Tuesday night, showing five girls almost neck and neck in the race for the crown. Girls in the first of six groups, listed categorically according to votes received by the number of tickets each candidate sells to the pageant, were Jane Bowering, Pat Conrad, Carol Ann Howay, Brenda Lassila, and newcomer to this category, Deljeet Manak. Final tally will be taken next Tuesday at 8 p.m. when the centennial queen contest ends. Winner will get a trip for herself and a companion to Hawaii, as well as featuring in the pageant at Athletic Park, July 28 to Aug. 4. In other leading groups were: Group II—Arla Rendle, Joan Gaunt, Carol Scarte, Candis Heath; Ann Cordick, Judy Rushton, Audrey Hayley. Group III—Marlene Wilson, Lorraine Wood, Lynn Henderson, Heather Reinste, Claudia Spouse, Moira Jackson, Carole Borgens. Group IV—Carole Dobbie, Carol Woolsey, Joan Crothall, Judy Frost, Marlene Bleakley, Joan Specht, Linda Bell.

New Bombing Leads Probed

BOB HOPE ... sleeping late

Special Patrols Guarding Ferries

Police investigating suspected terrorist bombing of provincial ferry My Chinook early Tuesday said today they have some new leads on the incident.

Deputy Chief T. P. Brennan of Delta municipal police department reaffirmed suspicion that Sons of Freedom bomb-brothers planted the dynamite bomb with timing device that did about $1,000 damage to the afterdeck of Chinook at Tsawwassen. "We have some leads. Sorry I can't be more specific, but we're right in the middle of things," Deputy Chief Brennan said.

The RCMP is still aiding in the investigation, he said. An explosives expert from the Interior was brought to examine the bomb remnants — pieces of pocket watch, batteries and 40-per-cent dynamite. "The ingredients were familiar to detectives from the West Kootenay and there is a strong suspicion these people are responsible," Mr. Bonner said.

Chinook, one of the vessels bought from Black Ball Ferries six months ago, was tied at Tsawwassen terminal when the blast went off at 4 a.m., smashing eight windows, some window frame, a metal locker, damaging paintwork and destroying some life belts and safety gear. No one was hurt and three engineers crew men from another part of the ship but out the small fire resulting from the explosion.

These would be in addition to regular security watchmen who are alerted to be extra vigilant for the safety of ships. Canadian Pacific Railway — against which there is a long history of Freedom violence — also said today that regular patrols will take special precautions aboard its coastal ferries.

A senior RCMP officer said here that all Vancouver Island detachments have been ordered to increase their number of patrols following the bombing of a provincial government ferry. Superintendent C. B. Macdonell said all vehicles will be checked as closely as possible, particularly at night, with extra watch on those in the vicinity of ferry terminals. The increased vigilance follows the bombing and recent thefts of dynamite on Vancouver Island, he said.

Attorney-General Bonner said Tuesday night there is strong suspicion that Sons of Freedom placed the bomb. It appears to be of a West Kootenay pattern with which we are familiar," he said.

Seamen Dispute Threatens Pulp, Logging Industries

B.C. tug crews, casting ballots today on a six per cent wage increase over three years, could tie up the entire coastal pulp and logging industry if they eventually go on strike. The wage increase was recommended by a federal conciliation board. Seamen are employed by 28 towing firms including Island Tug and Barge Ltd., which has 40 to 50 engineers and 100 to 120 unlicensed personnel such as deckhands, oilers, cooks and seamen. Employers are represented by the B.C. Tow Boat Owners Association, with whom negotiations were being conducted by Marine Engineers, Local 425, and Local 400, Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers (CLC).

HAUL BOOMS, BARGES Officials of the locals said a strike could cause a tie-up in the logging and pulp industries because tugs involved haul log booms and barges for the industries. The 300 marine engineers and 350 members of Local 400 want a 10 per cent wage increase in a two-year contract plus job security. Local members are being urged to reject a federal conciliation board majority recommendation of a six per cent wage increase over three years. The majority report made no recommendation for job security and union officials say the companies are slashing crews, making job security necessary. Present base rates are from $346 to $533 a month for engineers and $300 a month for seamen.

Hope Arrives In Dreamland

While 'unsuspecting tourists' strolled the Causeway with their cameras, Bob Hope eased into Victoria Inner Harbor this morning aboard the twin-screw 137-foot yacht Campana, sleeping like a babe. Old Shovel-nose, one of America's most durable and best-loved comedians, was still incommunicado at press time, wearing by brisk days at Seattle World Fair, but Campana's skipper, Bill Mounce of Vancouver, had a word to say about his wisecracking passenger.

"Hope's one of the best," declared Capt. Mounce with conviction. "He surely treated us well. The thing we've learned about him, this cruise, is that he's just as nice a guy in private as before the public." Asked if Bob Hope were as free with a wisecrack when not performing, Capt. Mounce grinned. "He can't help it," he said. "He's a born entertainer."

Campana, which homes at Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, is owned by Max Bell, Calgary sportsman and oil tycoon. The dances will start at 6:30 p.m. and take place on the lawn of the park. Four Vancouver Island dance groups, totalling 50 Indians, each will stage a welcoming dance. These will include Chief Mungo Martin and members of his family and a Songhees-Niiga group under the direction of Mrs. Sam Joseph. Chief John Albany will be master of ceremonies.

The public will have an opportunity at Thunderbird Park tonight to see how Indians welcome and introduce themselves to their fellow countrymen. Instead of handshakes, bows and head-taps, they will welcome seven visiting Texas Indians with dances and songs.

The Texas Braves will entertain by staging a "Ghost Dance." The dances will start at 6:30 p.m. and take place on the lawn of the park. THURSDAY MEETINGS

Oak Bay Kiwanis Club: Oak Bay Beach Hotel, 6:15 p.m. Speaker, Harry Burling on "My Trip to Kiwanis International."

Rotary Club of Victoria: Empress Hotel, 12:10 p.m. Bernie Van Aggeien. "What Is It?"

PEANUTS

Good humor of the suffering crowd boiled up into some hearty belly laughs during a bit with Sir James Douglas and the Indians. The chief was invoking his gods to smile upon the pact between Indians and whites.

"From the south whence comes the warming wind..." intoned the narrator and temporarily stopped the show. As for me, the experience not only whetted my appetite for a long, hot drink, but for opening night of what I suspect will be an interesting spectacular event, accurate as to detail but handled with the light, vivid showman's touch of the gifted professional.

Merchants to Fight Spread Of Duty-Free Shops In B.C.

The Retail Merchants' Association of British Columbia, representing about 1,600 merchants, will present a brief to Attorney-General Bonner protesting any extension of duty-free stores in the province.

General manager Ray Hunt, Vancouver, says the brief will be presented to Mr. Bonner in about a month. He says the association feels that the stores, from which American tourists can buy goods imported from Europe free of Canadian duty and provincial sales tax, are unfair to merchants. Mr. Hunt says goods sold at the one duty-free store in B.C. at Sidney are between 20 and 30 per cent cheaper than in Victoria retail stores.

Mr. Hunt says the association will attempt to stop a duty-free store proposed for Vancouver International Airport in about two years. "Every effort will be made to prevent the opening of any other store in B.C.," he said.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me just what this deal is? When you order breaded veal cutlets in most restaurants it seems that it is some kind of ground meat. What kind?

A. All local restaurants contacted insisted that whole veal cutlets are used.

Q. Is there a branch of the World Federalists in Victoria, and if so where can it be contacted?

A. Prof. C. S. Burchill, 1530 Dallas Road, EV 6-4918, is past president of the local branch.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times." Editor, questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. No item is returned to sender unless accompanied by return address. Questions should be submitted to a dealer.

Phone Girls Win 35-Hour Week

More than 100 Victoria and district telephone operators share in contract proposals for pay hikes and a 35-hour week made by conciliation officer Don Tysse.

B.C. Telephone Co. and the Federation of Telephone Employees, representing 1,200 operators in the province, agreed to the report Tuesday. Local management said there are about 160 Greater Victoria operators, 12 at Ganges and five in the Gulf Islands covered by the agreement.

The federation said operators approved the conciliator's report by a large majority. The settlement cuts the work by 2½ hours effective Oct. 1. The conciliation officer also awarded a 1½ per cent pay raise starting April 1 next year. Present scales range from $11.25 to $12.25 a day. Improvements in holidays, shift differentials, overtime and seniority clauses also were recommended.

SPACE BALLOON

'Big Shot' Test Success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The largest U.S. Space vehicle ever sent aloft—a balloon that inflated to the height of a 13-storey building—was rocketed 950 miles above the Atlantic today as a forerunner of an advanced Echo communications satellite.

The gleaming silvery sphere, dubbed "Big Shot," provided a brief but spectacular show for ground observers in the Cape Canaveral area as it separated from the Thor booster, expanded to its full 135-foot diameter, and drifted across the pre-dawn sky. It was visible for nearly 10 minutes before becoming obscured by haze and cloud.

During the time it was in sight it appeared as a brilliant yellow object, brighter than any stars in the sky.

Clouds apparently confined observation of the big ball to the Cape area.

Today's shot was to determine whether the balloon would expand and hold its form after being sent aloft. There were no communication tests.

ANNOUNCES SUCCESS

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced success of the mission, which paves the way for launching a similar balloon into orbit later this year as the Echo H experimental communications satellite.

After rising to 950 miles the balloon plunged back and burned up as intended in the earth's atmosphere. Death of the sphere occurred about 23 minutes after the 5:30 a.m. EDT launching, some 600 miles south of the Cape.

"Big Shot" is easily the largest U.S. package ever sent into space. However, many U.S.

'U.S. WANTS
DISARMAMENT ON OWN TERMS'

Union accused the United States today of wanting disarmament on its own terms, and nobody else's. (See Page 3.)

Soviet deputy foreign minister Valerian Zorin told the 39th plenary session of the 11-nation disarmament conference that the United States "will only be satisfied if its position is adopted lock, stock and barrel."

But he warned that unless the United States made concessions on the question of abolition of foreign bases and nuclear delivery vehicles in the first stage of the disarmament process, "there is not much chance of progress here."

HEAVY DAMAGE

Tornados
Slash
Alberta

EDMONTON (CP)—A family huddled in their home 60 miles west of Edmonton Tuesday as a tornado slashed through their farm yard, ripping apart four buildings and causing about $3,000 damage. Crops were levelled.

It was one of three tornados reported in central Alberta during a violent mid-afternoon electrical storm. No injuries were reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Alec Wolodko of Seba Beach said they saw the tornado approaching their farm. Mrs. Wolodko said the family huddled in their home when the tornado tore past them, missing the house by 50 feet.

"The house shook so much the nails were coming out of the walls and bricks were coming off the chimney,"

Mr. Wolodko said the tornado smashed two garages, a tool shed and a chicken coop and estimated damage at $3,000.

POWER POLES SNAPPED

A wagon in the yard was picked up and hurled 50 feet and a heavy mowing machine was tossed on top of a 45-gallon oil drum. The tornado snapped huge electric power poles like twigs.

Trees 30 inches in diameter were uprooted and tossed broken and shattered across a meadow on the Wolodko farm.

A second tornado was seen near Millet, 30 miles south of Edmonton, but no reports of damage or injuries have been received from the area.

The third funnel struck an area near Swan Falls, about 110 miles northeast of here. It cut a swath five miles long and 300 feet wide through heavy brush, uprooting trees six inches in diameter.

The tornados skirted Edmonton, but heavy rain and lightning hit the city, turning the Edmonton exhibition grounds into a sea of mud and water and flooding more than 600 basements and a number of traffic subways.

Cabinet Appointments
Delayed by Diefenbaker

(Times Ottawa Bureau) OTTAWA—Prime Minister Diefenbaker today named acting replacements for three cabinet ministers defeated in the June 18 federal election.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green will be acting minister of public works, in the place of David Walker.

Fisheries Minister Angus MacLean will be acting master-general, filling the vacancy left by the defeat of William Hamilton.

Forestry Minister Hugh John Fleming will be acting minister of mines and technical surveys in the place of Jacques Flynn.

The three defeated ministers resigned from the cabinet of active last Friday.

A fourth defeated cabinet member, State Secretary Noel Dorion, resigned earlier and Transport Minister Leon Balcer was named acting state secretary.

AWAITS RECOUNT
A fifth defeated cabinet minister, Solicitor-General William Browne, is withholding his resignation from the cabinet pending the outcome of an official recount in his riding of St. John's West. The recount ends Thursday.

In naming part-time ministers to fill the vacancies, Mr. Diefenbaker declined to say how long it would take him to appoint permanent members and return the cabinet to its strength of 24 members.

"That's a good question," he said. "I'll answer it later."

SAFE STAKEOUT
Police circulated false information about the contents of a safe, here and Tuesday arrested three men who bit.

The safe, containing cancelled cheques and other documents, was stolen during the weekend from the Imperial Oil Company's bulk plant, then later abandoned.

Police made it known the safe was stocked with $8,000, then staked out at the safe site.

John Edwin Davey, 22, and Charles William Thomas, 24, both of Dawson Creek, later pleaded guilty to possession of the safe and were sentenced to 18 months in prison.

Leonard Clifford McDonald, 25, from Oliver, pleaded not guilty to the charge and was remanded for eight days.

Sask. Doctors
Drop Demand
To Suspend Act

SASKATOON (CP)—The Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons today withdrew its demand that the government suspend the controversial Medical Care Insurance Act.

The move was announced by Dr. H. D. Dalgleish, president of the college, in a speech to the CCF provincial convention.

He proposed that the act be changed at a special session of the legislature, but said the amendments must first be agreed upon by the college and the government.

Doctors would resume normal practice after passage of the amendments, the college president said.

Since the start of the boycott the college has demanded suspension of the Medical Care Insurance Act as a prior condition to opening negotiations with the government on a new plan.

The college also had said doctors would not return to normal practice unless the act was suspended.

Dr. Dalgleish said his new proposal calls for amendments to allow any doctor who chooses to practise outside the act "without any provision of the act applying to him."

The college also wants changes dealing with payments for medical services and the operation of existing health insurance agencies.

Could Assign Payment to Agency

Dr. Dalgleish proposed an amendment that would permit a person who receives medical service to "assign to any health insurance agency his right to payment from the (medical care insurance) commission."

The commission is the government agency that administers the government plan.

In another development indicating new attempts at settlement of the bitter dispute are close at hand, Premier Lloyd indicated Tuesday night the government is not insisting on doctors return to practice before calling a special session.

The premier said in a telephone interview there had been agreement between the doctors and the government on mounting speculation that he would find the scenes negotiations are taking place.

The premier declined to say anything further when asked Tuesday night about the mounting speculation that he would find the scenes negotiations are taking place.

It's That Time Again at Sooke

There will be entertainment aplenty at All-Sooke Day Saturday.

Bob Waters, in charge of the program, says that "We've got something for everybody."

"There's everything from log-bobbing and a marathon to a baby show and a pie-eating contest."

"What more could you ask?"

It all adds up to the usual entertaining program, with the emphasis on boosting Sooke. This involves a complex mish-mash of logging sports, dancing, a ladies' nail-driving contest, marathons and barbecued salmon.

While All-Sooke Day is Saturday, the program actually gets under way at 5:30 p.m. Friday when a number of athletes will line up in front of City Hall for the start of the annual Victoria-Sooke marathon.

Twenty-four sweaty miles later, the runners will struggle into Sooke Flats where they will run head-on into all things, a session of dancing on the green. While the marathoners are on the road, local residents will whoop it up with square dances and what-have-you to wile the time away.

The program gets under way in earnest Saturday at 12:30 p.m. with races for both children and adults. Included in this category is the pie-eating contest, which sees youngsters of all shapes and sizes covered with blueberry jelly from head to breakfast.

Another novelty highlight should be the greasy pole climb. Officials, who may or may not be accused of a trace of sadism, tack a $5 bill on top of a 15-foot pole which has been liberally laced with grease and then let the youngsters try to get it. It's as messy as it sounds.

At 2 p.m. Lieutenant Governor George Hearn will officially open the program and officials will launch the logging sports.

These include tree-chopping from springboards, axe-throwing, log-rolling (in which contestants push logs up an incline with a pike), and log bucking (sawing through logs with both hand and power saws).

Other logging highlights will be the square timber-chopping (in which the plucky contestant stands on a 12-inch block of wood and then neatly splits it in half with well-placed axe-strokes between the feet) and high rigging, where Kelly Stanley of Kosmo, Wash., will defend the championship he won last year. He climbed a 90-foot spar tree and rang a bell at the top in 33 seconds.

Expected to grab a major share of attention are the famous Wickheim brothers of Sooke. Ardiel, the world champion log-birler, and brother Jubel, his most consistent competitor, will test the new plastic-lined pool that is being constructed so that spectators will not have to watch from the river bank.

Maywell Wickheim will stage an exhibition of spring-board-topping, a rather spectacular event in which he climbs a 20-foot tree by making a succession of cuts for springboards like a circular staircase.

There will also be a chance for the ladies to star in a nail-driving contest and a baby-contest.

And then there's the gourmet division.

Over half a ton of fresh spring salmon will be barbecued over an alderwood fire (it has to be alderwood, but no one seems to know why), and those who don't like fish will be able to sample beef barbecued Leechtown style. This involves burying 20-pound chunks of beef in the midst of a pit of glowing alderwood coals for about 12 hours.

The day will wind up with a dance in the Sooke Community Hall starting at 9 p.m.

And when that's over everyone should be ready for a little rest.

Toronto Gets New Art Group

TORONTO (CP) Twelve Torontoians met Tuesday night to form the Toronto Arts Theatre Foundation, an organization they hope will provide a mecca for Canadian actors and playwrights and a home of good entertainment for play-goers.

Temporary chairman of the foundation is Leonard Reilly, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Toronto-Eglinton.

Among the speakers was Eamonn Martin, Toronto insurance man, sometime actor and boyhood friend of Irish playwright Brendan Behan, who said the foundation hopes to do for Toronto what the Abbey Theatre has done for Ireland.

LAUDS MANITOBA CENTRE

Toronto actor-director Sean Mulcahy told the meeting Winnipeg's Manitoba Theatre Centre has been producing "the highest type of drama for eight years."

"But Toronto, with its great population, has nothing closely resembling this," he said.

Mr. Martin said first production of the foundation is to be Behan's "The Quare Fellow."

The foundation hopes eventually to have a 700-seat theatre. Mr. Martin estimated total cost of the centre at $2,000,000.

Beef Specialist Named Assistant To Commissioner

Appointment of L. Wilkinson as assistant livestock commissioner for the B.C. government in Victoria was announced Tuesday by Agriculture Minister Frank Richter.

Mr. Wilkinson is a beef specialist.

"This should be a decided asset to the department in its policies in placing strong emphasis on the production of more beef in B.C. to meet the evident and constant increasing population," said Mr. Richter.

ATTACKS MACMILLAN

Gerald Nabarro, one of the best-known back-benchers, was quoted as saying Westminster "looked like an abattoir" after Macmillan finished with his administration.

Nabarro singled out the dismissal of treasury chief Selwyn Lloyd, and described it as "a happy and disreputable" treatment.

The Labor censure motion, signed by party leader Hugh Gaitskell and several members of the opposition "shadow cabinet," is expected to be debated next week, such motions by tradition are discussed as soon as possible.

Black Market Hay Costs $60 a Ton

TRENTON, N.J. (CP) Cows have become victims of a hay black market due to the drought, says the governor of New Jersey. Governor Richard J. Hughes said Tuesday hay, which normally brings $30 a ton, currently is selling at $50 to $60 a ton.

TCA AIRLINER LANDS ON BELLY; NONE HURT

MONTREAL (CP) — All 35 passengers and crew of four were reported safe and uninjured today following an emergency belly landing of a Trans-Canada Air Lines Viscount aircraft at Gander, Nfld.

A TCA spokesman said the passengers were taken to hospital for routine examination, but no one was reported injured.

He said the emergency landing occurred after the pilot of the airliner, Capt. William Gwynn of Montreal, discovered, shortly after take-off from Gander, that the nose-wheel would not function. The main landing gear, however, was functioning properly.

FARMER ACCUSED Family Kept In Slavery

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — A 51-year-old chicken farmer was indicted by a federal grand jury Tuesday on charges of keeping a Mexican family of seven in a state of peonage and involuntary servitude.

The nine-count indictment was brought against David L. Shackney of Middlefield, who was accused of keeping the family on his farm against their will.

Assistant U.S. Attorney James D. O'Connor said the charges were tantamount to slavery. He said it was the first time in this century that the charge involuntary servitude had been prosecuted by the U.S. attorney's office.

Shackney is accused of building Louis Humberto Oros, 42, a former Mexico City taxi cab driver, and his family on his farm under a two-year work contract.

Shackney met Oros in Mexico City and persuaded him to come to his farm last July with his wife, Virginia Espina, 43, and their five children, federal officials said.

The entire family was forced to work 12 to 15 hours a day, seven days a week, under the contract which promised them wages at the end of two years. They were not allowed to go to church or school, the officials added.

Shackney faces a maximum penalty of $5,000 and five years in prison on each count, if convicted.

ASTRONAUT ARMS OPEN FOR FIRST SPACEWOMAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's first man in orbit John H. Glenn Jr., testified today that when a qualified woman shows up for space exploration he and other spacemen "will welcome her aboard with open arms."

But Glenn, astronaut Scott Carpenter, and top officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration agreed this would not happen any time soon.

Testifying at a House space subcommittee hearing on alleged sex discrimination in space, they denied there was any specific bar against women as astronauts.

They said the simple fact was that no women had qualified, and none were likely to because of rigid qualifications, including previous test pilot experience.

Laboratory Held Up By Austerity

Construction start on a new livestock pathology laboratory for the B.C. government at Abbotsford has been "temporarily suspended" a works official said Tuesday.

Directors of Cowichan Agricultural Society have written to Agriculture Minister Frank Richter asking why the building has not yet been started.

Mr. Richter said the project was delayed; earlier this year for changes in plans based on improvements suggested in Ottawa.

"As far as I know plans are pretty well complete now," he said.

Site is already acquired, he added, and the project is now in the hands of the works department.

The works official said lenders could be called "at a very early date" but the project is suspended because of Canada's financial crisis and Ottawa's new austerity drive.

He said B.C. is waiting to see how new Ottawa policy will affect the project before planning a definite date for a start.

TO DISPEL ANTI-SEMITISM CHARGES Jew Gets Top Soviet Job

LONDON (Reuters) — Veniamin Dymshyts took over his new duties today as Soviet deputy premier in a government shuffle that made him the first Jew to gain a top Soviet government post since 1957.

Dymshyts, 52, also took over the key post of chairman of the state planning committee, replacing Vladimir Novikov who has been moved to "another post," the Soviet news agency Tass reported Tuesday night.

He has been mentioned by Khrushchev as an example to dispel charges of anti-semitism in Russia.

Dymshyts was the latest of a succession of Jews to hold prominent posts in the Soviet government and the Soviet Communist party.

The last leading Jew was the now-disgraced Lazar M. Kaganovich who also held the post of Soviet deputy premier during the era of Joseph Stalin. He was regarded as the late Soviet ruler's top troubleshooter.

Kaganovich was ousted from the Soviet leadership in June 1957, and figured as one of the "anti-party" leaders condemned by Premier Khrushchev at the 22nd Soviet Communist party congress in Moscow last October.

Dymshyts, in addition to his new government posts, is a member of the Communist party central committee and a deputy in the Supreme Soviet parliament.

Dymshyts' new appointment came in the wake of a series of allegations by Jews in the West that anti-semitism has been growing in the Soviet Union.

However, Soviet leaders have repeatedly denied the allegations.
